Nixon Will Try To Clear Name On TV Tonight

Must Explain How He Used Private $18,235 to Ike's Satisfaction

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Post-Dispatch reported today the trustee of an $18,000 expense fund for Senator Richard M. Nixon, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, enlisted the aid of Nixon's Washington office in connection with a tax refund claim of between $500,000 to $600,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The White House said today President Truman asked Attorney-General McGranery to look into the acceptance by Senator Richard M. Nixon, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, of $18,000 in senatorial expense contributions.

By JAMES C. ANDERSON

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23 (UP)—Sen. Richard M. Nixon goes before the American people tonight to tell them what he did with a widely-publicized $18,235 expense fund donated by wealthy backers.

EISENHOWER TO TUNE IN

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will delay his Cleveland, O., speech tonight to hear Senator Richard M. Nixon of California broadcast a defense of his private expense account which has created a political furor.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James Haggerty, told reporters the Nixon broadcast will be piped into the hall where Eisenhower will speak and the Republican presidential nominee will deliver his address after the broadcast.

Eisenhower is expected to decide after this broadcast whether Nixon remains on the Republican ticket as his running mate.

Stevenson Endorsed By A.F.L.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention today endorsed Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate, for president of the United States.

The action was unanimous by the 800 delegates who acted on a committee recommendation.

It was the first endorsement by convention action since the A.F.L. was founded in 1881. Back in 1924 a special A.F.L. committee endorsed the late Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, who was running for the presidency on the Progressive ticket.

The C.I.O. already has endorsed Stevenson, thus putting the two big branches of labor firmly behind the Democratic candidate.

Third Housing Development Is Announced

94 Units Will Cost $1 Million

Greater Victoria's third big housing project disclosed in the past two days is a $1,000,000 scheme planned on property opposite University School, Richmond Road.

Roy Green, spokesman, said today Paine & Townsend Ltd. will erect 94 houses in a new subdivision — "University Gardens."

Monday it was learned a group of businessmen including James Lambie and Gordon Rolston, contractors, plan on erecting 400 houses costing more than $4,000,000 in a project in Burnside-Tillamook-Carey-Interurban Road areas.

In neighbouring property more than 100 lots have been sold with many houses in varying stages of construction by private contractors in another project.

All three, if completed, will cost in the neighborhood of $6,250,000.

$1,500 DOWN

The University Garden subdivision project will be financed by G. C. Mahoney of Victoria, Mr. Green stated.

"These houses can be bought for $1,500 down on a 20-year basis, provided loans are approved by N.H.A.," he said.

The $1,500 down payment, however, hinges on certain financial qualifications, according to Mr. Green. A man would have to be earning not less than $3,500 a year and be making no payments on other articles, such as a car or refrigerator, he said.

The group planning the 400-unit project in the Burnside area stated their plans were still in preliminary stages.

Down payments would be approximately $2,200 on three-bedroom homes, with the balance over 20 years, the group said. If financing is required, it can be arranged under National Housing Act loans through approved lending companies, it was stated.

Baby's Body Recovered

QUESNEL, Sept. 23 (BUP)—The recovery of the body of nine-month-old Tommy Lebourdais from the Fraser River led police today to believe his mother, Mrs. Eva Lebourdais, missing since September 13, had committed suicide.

MARCIANO FAVORED OVER JERSEY JOE TONIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott has weighed in with a 12-pound advantage over challenger Rocky Marciano for their title bout tonight. Walcott tipped the scales at 196 pounds, while Marciano weighed 184 at the pre-fight ceremonies in Philadelphia. The fight is scheduled for 7:30 tonight.

The weigh-in ceremonies took place in the Philadelphia Arena. A night-long rain ended in Philadelphia late this morning, and the skies were clearing considerably. The weather forecast is for comfortable fight weather... cloudy and cool. There will be no broadcast. Last odds quoted favored Marciano, 9-5.

Robert House Meeting Set For Wednesday

Mayor Claude Harrison called a special meeting for 10 Wednesday morning to discuss Robert House.

An in-camera session of council Monday approved a suggestion from H. W. Davey, Q.C., outside legal counsel, that two independent appraisals be obtained on Robert House.

The meeting, it was learned, ended in another outburst over the current City Hall controversy on the mayor-manager issue.

In the meantime Mayor Claude Harrison said he had no intention of resigning and might reverse his decision not to seek a second term in 1953.

Ald. Waldo Skillings left the Monday meeting before it ended. "I did not leave in anger," he said today. "I was just fed up. There was no purpose being served by the meeting so I left."

"I feel time is the greatest ally of truth and justice... in the long run the general public will come to see that we are striving for unity," he said, adding he felt the opinions of himself and several others in the current controversy would be "vindicated."

Ald. Skillings said he would repeat his challenge to the mayor to resign and go to the people again in December. The alderman said he would not necessarily run himself.

He said if any group of citizens put forward a candidate who had the support of the people, he would back him.

Strike Vote

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23 (CP)—Fifteen hundred workers in three Vancouver steel shipyards will take a strike vote.

An application for a government supervised strike vote was made today by representatives of 10 unions as a result of a deadlock in wage negotiations.

The workers are demanding a 20-cent-an-hour wage boost, while operators want a contract based on last year's wage rate. The average mechanic's rate in the shipyards now is $1.85 an hour.

ABBOTT FAVORS TAX CUTS AS SOON AS PRACTICABLE

MONTREAL, Sept. 22 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said today he feels personal income and corporation taxes should be reduced "as soon as conditions make it practicable."

Corporation taxes of 22 per cent on the first $10,000 of earnings and 52 per cent on earnings above that are "pretty drastic taxation any way you look at it," Mr. Abbott said in a speech prepared for delivery at the convention of the Federation of Automobile Dealers' Associations.

"I have said publicly on more than one occasion that it is too high to be continued for more than a relatively short period, and it should be reduced as well as the personal income tax as soon as conditions make it practicable."

New Brunswick Tories Win Dramatic Victory

17-Year Drought Ends for Provincial Party As Son of Former Premier Sweeps Into Power

By LOUIS R. SHERMAN

FREDERICTON, N.B., Sept. 23 (BUP)—A 17-year drought was ended for Progressive Conservatives in New Brunswick today as they followed the son of a former premier into power after a stunning upset at the polls.

The victory was crushing. John B. McNair, premier for 12 of the 17 years of Liberal administration, was rejected personally as Hugh John Flemming, a 220-pound lumberman from Juniper, led the Conservatives into office with a whopping majority.

Counting of ballots cast Monday in New Brunswick's 22nd general election continued today. At 6 a.m. A.D.T., party standings were:

	Elected 1948
Pr. Conservative	33 5
Liberal	16 47

The Conservatives also led in three undecided seats and appeared likely to take 36 members into the next 52-seat legislature.

BIG CELEBRATION
Flemming's victory ignited the biggest election celebration seen in this capital in 50 years. Eight abreast, singing and cheering party workers paraded in the streets until dawn.

Premier McNair, who dissolved his government July 16 to request a mandate on barring public servants from international unions, tasted bitter personal defeat along with three, and possibly four, cabinet ministers. McNair, 62, ran 125 votes behind the lowest of four Conservatives who swept the multiple-seat riding of York County.

Flemming, the 53-year-old son of James K. Flemming who was premier in New Brunswick from 1911 to 1914, and two running mates, triumphed by a country mile in Carleton riding, gaining a seat formerly held by the Liberals.

SWITCH IN POWER
In Ottawa a far-reaching shift in the balance of federal-provincial relations was seen in the Conservative party's victory.

It meant that within three months, the party standings of the 10 provincial governments of Canada had switched from seven to three on the side of the Liberals, to an even five to five between right-wing groups and the Liberals and the left-wing C.C.F.

To say that the result came as a pleasant surprise to national Progressive Conservative headquarters would be gross understatement. It could be reported, however, that federal Liberals

Hunters Believed to Have Started Big New Blaze

By DON INGHAM

A powerful new ally—a Pacific storm—is coming to the rescue of a soot-blackened army of 1,000 firefighters that is meeting Vancouver Island's worst fire threat in 1952 head on.

B.C. Forest Service officials said today a storm is expected to bring relief through higher humidities within two days, with the strong possibility of rain Friday or Saturday.

Because of the expected moist weather, no forest closure will be imposed for at least several days, they added.

Even the storm, however, is loaded with peril. It might be preceded by winds of from 20 to 25 miles per hour which could drive flames over thousands of acres before they could be checked again by the determination of the loggers and Forest Service crews battling two huge fires and several smaller ones on the island.

Worst trouble today was at the Lens Creek fire, about 10 miles south by west from Lake Cowichan village.

The Forest Service has 180 men on one side of the fire, 100 on the other, and is still pouring in men and machinery.

The fire, believed started by a hunter, has now covered 500 acres. The Forest Service fears it might spread into the old Hillcrest Lumber Co. slash, where it would have a clear run over hundreds of acres.

At Copper Canyon, 600 loggers of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. have held their 2,000-acre fire in slash and green timber within its boundaries for 24 hours. Officials report the fire "not under control" as yet, but feel only a rising wind can cause them more trouble.

Major hot spots of the fire are under control, an official said, and most of the standing timber burned will be salvaged within the next 10 years.

"The fire was set during the moist weather of a week ago, in order to burn slash, and we've been fighting it every day since then," he said.

He added that earlier reports of a skidder having been lost were erroneous. A machine was cut off from Chemainus when a railroad bridge was burned, he said, but there was ample room farther back in the operations to move it to safety.

A 50-acre fire was giving a crew of 32 men trouble today two miles west of Glen Lake, and men are being recruited to help the 53-man crew combatting a blaze on the E. and N. Railway, 25 miles out from Port Alberni.

All MacMillan and Bloedel camps have closed, and Elk River Timber Company at Campbell River has eliminated all falling and bucking, and has barred hunters from its property.

There are 30 fires burning in the Vancouver Forest District, which includes Vancouver Island. In the whole of B.C. there are 62 fires being fought by 1,038 men—1,000 of them on Vancouver Island.

CHAPLIN CRIED OPENLY

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Joyful welcoming crowds brought tears to the eyes of Charlie Chaplin today as the little comedian returned to the land of his birth for the first time in 21 years.

Beset by a move to bar his re-entry into the United States, Chaplin cried openly as a throng of more than 1,000 jammed around him at Waterloo Station yelling "Good Old Charlie" and "Welcome Back."

Repeatedly the 63-year-old actor turned to his young wife, the former Oona O'Neill, and murmured: "It's wonderful, it's wonderful."

Bobbles finally opened a lane through the well-wishers and escorted the couple to their car. Meanwhile, their four children were smuggled off the rear end of the train and taken to the family's eight-room suite at the Savoy Hotel in a second automobile.

"Londoners haven't changed a bit," moist-eyed Chaplin told reporters. "What a wonderful welcome!"

Asked what plans he has for his stay in England, the comedian replied: "We're just going to see everything we can, historic sights and so on. But right now you must excuse me, I'm a bit too overwhelmed by the crowd to be articulate."

Harry Crocker, Chaplin's private secretary, told reporters the comedian had prepared a reply to a question which was never put to him at a shipboard press conference Monday. If asked, Crocker said, Chaplin intended to declare: "I have never been a member of the Communist party and I am not a member of the Communist party."

DRIVER STILL UNCONSCIOUS AFTER MONDAY HIGHWAY CRASH

Henry A. Wilt of Port Renfrew, who was seriously injured when his car crashed against a pole at Colwood Corner Monday morning, is still in a serious condition, it was reported by the Royal Jubilee Hospital today. The victim has not regained consciousness since the accident.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

CONVENTION CUT-UPS

WHILE IN VANCOUVER on a brief visit last week, I made my headquarters at the Hotel Vancouver where, whenever I get the opportunity to sit and stare—which isn't often—I inevitably find much entertainment in watching the passing parade.

That is, what you can see of it. For as I have more than once observed, the dim and very indirect lighting of its entrance lounge does not conduce to reading, while figures move about in the semi-gloom as if in a darkened stage setting designed as a background for wraiths.

DANIEL BOONES?

BUT THAT VERY atmosphere of mystery and gloom made the sudden appearance of hundreds of strange figures all the more startling. Some wore conical caps of the kind made famous in American history by Daniel Boone, the pioneer—and when such caps, complete with tail-piece, are worn with business suits they certainly look incongruous.

However, one stalwart who, I learned, hailed from the wilds of Point Grey, wore his conical cap in conjunction with a sports coat of a tartan of such vivid scarlet and of such a design as I am sure never originated within a few thousand miles of the land of the tartan and heather. The resultant combination would have scared any connoisseur of a tree and any self-respecting Scot into convulsion fits.

TAMS AND PIRATES

TAM-O-SHANTERS, TOO, were there by the score but the wearers were about as Scotch as the disporters of India head-dresses were Indian. These palefaces went about in feathered head-dresses and Indian hunting-shirts of such patterns and colors that even the veriest tyro of a hunter couldn't mistake them for a deer in the woods.

And, as the evening wore on and conviviality waxed warm the halls and corridors echoed to the sound of war-whoops. Pirates ganged up with swarthy sailors hats, and mackinaws of color mixtures that had to be seen to be believed—and then you wouldn't—added to the festive note.

INHIBITIONS OFF

NEEDLESS TO SAY, the wearers of all this odd regalia were convention delegates, members of a service club which does an inestimable amount of good for the community wherever it is in operation. And as I watched their capers and cut-ups I marvelled again at the way in which men of customary sober mien—and I use that adjective in its widest, and not in its liquid, sense—can cast off their inhibitions at conventions.

Take any of those men who were wearing outlandish garb and there isn't one of them but would recoil with horror at the thought of donning anything unconventional for everyday wear. If their wives wanted them to go in for a little originality in the way of suits or hats, they would be aghast and probably think she had gone mad.

MASS HYSTERIA?

AS I WATCHED some of those men cavorting about the corridor in a long, Conga-like chain I wondered whether such cut-ups were really a mild form of mass hysteria, an expression of exuberance invoked by an attack of conventionitis, or whether it was only another manifestation of the innate boyishness, a reluctance to grow up, that carries over into maturity.

For it was obvious, even to the most casual observer that the dancing delegates were thoroughly enjoying themselves. However, as the poet says, a little nonsense now and then is cherished by the wisest men—and no one would begrudge a little nonsense now and then to the men of the service clubs which do so much to bring a little happiness and well-being into the drab lives of others less fortunate.

Tito Will Visit Britain

BLED, Yugoslavia, Sept. 23 (AP)—Premier Josip Tito tentatively has accepted Prime Minister Churchill's invitation to visit Britain.

This was disclosed today by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at a press conference concluding the British five-day visit to Yugoslavia.

Eden gave no expected date for the visit. However, the Yugoslav Communist Party Congress originally scheduled to be held October 19 was postponed suddenly last week until November 2 and there has been speculation

Tito might make the trip before that latter date.

Such a visit to the British capital would mark the Yugoslav leader's first departure from his country since the break between his government and the Soviet-led communist countries early in 1948.

Before Eden left by plane for Vienna to talk with Allied and Austrian leaders, a terse joint British-Yugoslav communiqué reported that he and the Yugoslav leader had reached "close agreement" in their assessment of broad problems facing the two countries.

Province's First Domestic Science Teacher Mourned

The province's first domestic science teacher died Sunday in Jubilee Hospital at the age of 71.

Mrs. Winifred Maud Hamilton, who resided at 468 Beach Drive, was an early graduate of the Boston (Mass.) School of Cooking. She was born in Winnipeg.

Mrs. Hamilton leaves three daughters, Mrs. R. S. Wilson and Miss Phoebe Hamilton, both of Vancouver, and Mrs. N. R. Johnson of Toronto. A sister, Mrs. D. L. McKeard, lives in Victoria.

The funeral will leave Hayward Ltd. at 2:45 p.m., proceeding to St. Mary's Church. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn will officiate at the church services at 3 p.m.

Cremation will follow.

Dr. Stewart Allen To Speak in City

Congregations of two city churches will meet next Sunday to hear Dr. A. Stewart Allen, missionary and one-time prisoner of the Chinese Reds.

Members and adherents of the First United and the Metropolitan United Churches will have an opportunity to share the first-hand story of a man imprisoned and finally deported by a nation he had served for 21 years.

The service will be in the First United Church, at 7:30 p.m.

Famed surgeon and hospital administrator, Dr. Allen was accused of espionage and jailed for more than a year, spending 10 months in solitary confinement.

Deported in 1951, Dr. Allen returned with memories of Communist intrigue and torture, later publicized by one of Canada's leading magazines.

Montreal born, he lived in Naramata, B.C., before his graduation from the University of British Columbia and McGill University. He began his career as a United Church missionary—surgeon in 1929. Red Cross official, Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, Rotarian, Dr. Allen also served in Chungking during the Sino-Japanese War.

Chammoun New President Of Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Sept. 23 (UP)—Camille Chammoun, parliamentary leader who led the fight to force President Beshara El-Khoury to resign, was unanimously elected president of the Lebanon today.

Chammoun was named on the first ballot by the parliament after El-Khoury's resignation had been read. There were no speeches. Chammoun immediately was sworn into office.

A day-long curfew was clamped on the nation by Premier General Fuad Chehab as parliament met to go through the formality of electing Chammoun president.

El-Khoury was deposed last Wednesday in a bloodless coup by General Shehab. There were only two candidates to succeed El-Khoury—Chammoun and opposition leader Hameed Frangiyeh.

Frangiyeh appeared to be the favorite after Shehab announced he was not a candidate. Frangiyeh had the support of the Christian Maronite Church, opposition, deputies, and many of El-Khoury's bloc of 60 deputies in the 72-seat parliament.

However, Monday night many deputies swung their support to Chammoun, who protested in 1949 against the re-election of El-Khoury. Frangiyeh then announced his withdrawal, leaving Chammoun the only candidate for the presidency.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Sept. 23 (UP)—The R.C.M.P. were investigating today the discovery of six skeletons in a cave at Crow Lake, 65 miles north of here, but believed they were Indians who died in a measles epidemic in 1886.

Bradley Wants Atom Secrets To Be Shared

Allied Military Leaders Need Data

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today that sooner or later the United States must give atomic warfare secrets to Allied military commanders in Europe.

The chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff set no time limit for turning over atomic information but he let it be known he believes that eventually the U.S. is going to have to give some inside dope on atomic warfare to the military commanders.

Gen. Bradley said at a press conference some Allied countries have gained the false impression that mere U.S. possession of atomic weapons made it unnecessary for them to build up their own defenses.

"Atomic weapons will play a great part in the defense of Europe, but they will not replace strong ground and air forces," he said.

Conditions have changed, Bradley said, since enactment of a law in 1946 forbidding the sharing of any atomic information with any foreign government, no matter how friendly.

Gen. Bradley said that Gen. Alphonse Juin, ground force commander in western Europe, and other non-American commanders and leaders under Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's command know no more about atomic weapons and their capabilities than what has been published in the U.S. press.

Drydock Repairs Delayed Sailing Of Princess Joan

Princess Joan, midnight boat to Vancouver, Monday evening was delayed one hour and 40 minutes because she was late coming out of drydock after a fast "shave and haircut" and minor propeller repairs.

The ship went into government graving dock Monday morning, and did not clear drydock until 12:45 a.m. P.D.T. She is scheduled to sail at 11:59 p.m. P.D.T., and left at 1:40 a.m. P.D.T.

Her running mate on the Victoria-Vancouver trip, Princess Elizabeth, is in drydock today for similar brief overhaul, but it is expected she will make her sailing for Vancouver at the regular time.

Bullet That Killed Tong Said From Suchan's Revolver

TORONTO, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Crown Attorney W. O. Gibson set out today to weave a hangman's noose for gunmen Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson from the testimony of an R.C.M.P. ballistics expert.

A .45-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver was kicked fully loaded from Suchan's hand as he walked into a Montreal apartment police trap last March.

Gibson surprised Monday night by declaring to a jury here that it was a bullet fired from this same gun that killed Sgt. of Deas. Edmund Tong last March 6 as he trailed the notorious Boyd gang.

Gibson said he planned a parade of witnesses, outlining his case to the jury. The Crown attorney said he would call on a Mrs. Ann Camero, with whom Suchan lived last winter and who bore him a son.

Gibson said Mrs. Camero's car was the one used in the killing of the detective. Tong's partner, Det.-Sgt. Roy Perry would give his eyewitness account of the shooting. The Crown said a woman, who saw the car shortly afterward, would testify that Suchan was driving it.

Other witnesses include two painters and cab drivers who "can positively identify" the fugitives as men they took to Port Credit, Oakville, Burlington and Hamilton immediately after the shooting.

Suchan and Jackson are being tried jointly for the murder of Tong. They are also charged with the attempted murder of Perry.

The crown attorney wound up his summation: "On March 23 Tong died. The bullet that killed him was sent to the R.C.M.P. lab in Ottawa. So were the guns found with Suchan."

Tests there by Staff Sergeant W. W. Sutherland show the empty cartridge cases found in the apartment and the bullet taken from Tong were fired from the gun in Suchan's hand at the time of his arrest," Gibson said.

He added: "It is on this evidence that Jackson and Suchan were brought before you on a charge of murder."

Although Jackson is not said to have fired the bullet killing Tong, if he were proven the murderer's companion and accomplice at the time, he would be equally guilty in the eyes of the law.

Meanwhile Edwin Alonzo Boyd, suspected master bank robber, was "sitting this one out" today as a jury heard evidence on four charges against him. Boyd pleaded guilty Monday to one charge of bank robbery, and others of jailbreaking, escaping custody and car theft, and much of today's testimony was to be mere formality.

But the gangleader was still to be tried on 14 other counts, nine of them bank robberies in which police said he took $90,000. He admitted the armed hold-up March 4 of an uptown branch of the Bank of Montreal in which $24,696 was taken.

PLUGS IN IRON, STOVE COOKS

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 23 (AP)—The electricity had been off for two days at the Maurice Deiser home, and Mrs. Deiser stocked up on groceries for a good hot meal when the utility servicemen reported the trouble was fixed.

Her daughter complained the radio wouldn't work. When Mrs. Deiser turned on the No. 1 burner the radio started playing—but the stove didn't cook.

When she turned on the No. 4 burner the radio stopped—but the stove didn't start.

But when she plugged in her electric iron the stove started cooking.

The servicemen haven't figured it out yet.

Police Launch Search For Oakalla Escapee

BURNABY, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Police launched an intensive search today for Harold Goodwin, 32, who escaped from the Oakalla Prison Farm late Monday.

Police said Goodwin was first missed around 4 p.m. He had been serving a 14-month term on a narcotics conviction. A posse was formed to scour the area around the farm.

Police suspect that a girl friend of Goodwin's, who was released from Oakalla recently, helped him plan the escape. He made a change of clothing not far from the prison and probably a car was waiting for him.

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

TROUBLE—General Dwight D. Eisenhower is having trouble with railroad engineers just as Governor Thomas E. Dewey had in 1948.

But after complaining twice Monday because his engineer stopped the train short of the best speaking position, the Republican presidential nominee sent a signed note of praise to the engineer for averting a possible tragedy.

After complaining about the premature stops, Eisenhower learned that Engineer Owen Allen stopped the train in emergency action near Owensboro to avoid striking some children who darted across the track.

He sent a note to Allen saying: "I congratulate you on your efficiency and give thanks from the bottom of my heart for the fact that we did not become involved in a tragedy."

BATTLE—Communist soldiers launched 20 probing attacks across the Korean battlefield today, but U.N. troops battered them back with artillery, mortar and machine gun fire.

Six of the assaults came in the Bunker Hill area, four came around Heartbreak Ridge northwest of the Punchbowl and three were on the east-central front near the rocky peak called "Luke the Gook's Castle."

An 8th Army briefing officer said he believed the probes were just "harassing actions."

The 8th Army announced that Allied ground troops last week inflicted the fourth highest casualties of the year on Communist forces.

WAR—United States B-26 Invaders pounced on Communist supply convoys Monday night and pilots reported 158 Red trucks destroyed—the highest one-night bag since last February.

Ground action tapered off after several days of fierce fighting at both ends of the 155-mile-long front. The Reds jabbed at Allied lines with 20 patrols. All were beaten back.

The U.S. 8th Army said 3,332 Communist troops were killed or wounded last week, the fourth highest weekly toll of the year.

APPEAL—In Toronto, Labor Minister Gregg warned today that inflation still remains a possibility in Canada and appealed to labor to use "restraint" in demands for wage boosts.

But that didn't mean he was asking labor for a "no-strike pledge."

"It seems that in the not very distant past some remarks of mine were taken to mean that I was asking labor for a no-strike pledge," Mr. Gregg said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Canadian Congress of Labor annual convention.

"I did not ask it then and I do not ask it now."

A speech he made before the Trades and Labor Congress at Winnipeg last month was widely interpreted as suggesting labor soften the use of its strike weapon during the defense production race.

CHARITY—In Quebec City, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said Monday night the west was holding Communist forces in check, but the world needed more Christian charity.

He told a distinguished gathering at Laval University's centennial celebrations that aid to underprivileged nations was as much a part of Canadian foreign policy as a military build-up to deter aggression.

He said the two "imperative" objectives were being met. "But I wonder," he said, "if beyond the immediate purpose of the military defense of the free nations and the economic recovery of the less favored peoples, we perceive with sufficient clarity and proper conviction, the idea of charity, or true love and our neighbor which should inspire such international action."

Vancouver Traffic Deaths Bring Charges

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Two charges of manslaughter arising out of traffic deaths were laid by Vancouver police Monday.

Peter McEwan, 19, Vancouver, was charged in connection with the Sept. 12 death of Phillip Harris. Police conducted an extensive search for McEwan, believed to be up-coast on a fishing boat.

Earlier, John S. Kinney, 42, was charged with the same crime following the death of Adolph Hudel of Vancouver from injuries received when struck by a car while crossing a residential street Sunday.

Pact Signed With Native Fishermen

Start Chum Fishing Wednesday Morning

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Native fishermen will start hauling in the fall chum salmon run Wednesday following an agreement signed with the B.C. Fisheries Association.

The association said in a joint statement that the offer of from seven-and-a-half to five-and-a-half cents per pound was also made to the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union but union officials said they could not officially accept or reject the offer until it has been put before the full membership.

After negotiations lasting most of the day, association officials agreed to the brotherhood's request for an increase of one-half cent a pound for fish caught in the Johnston Straits-Fraser River area.

Johnston stratum prices agreed upon were: seven-and-a-half cents per pound for Johnston Straits-Fraser River area, six cents for central-northern area and five-and-a-half cents for the Queen Charlotte area and west coast above Estevan.

The T.L.C. union went on strike to back up demands for last year's prices, ranging from eight to 11 cents per pound, after the association said loss of British markets and a surplus carried over from 1953 made it impossible for them to meet those prices, and offered five-and-a-half cents.

AGREE TO REQUEST
An association official said "In spite of the fact that there has been no appreciable change in the market, we agreed to the (brotherhood) request in order to get operations going."

Commenting on the agreement, William Scow, president of the native brotherhood, said "Our membership has lost a lot of valuable fishing time as a result of the present closure. These are minimum prices and we still hope the market will improve and that we will be able to get higher prices."

It was agreed that fishing should commence in all areas at 6 a.m. Wednesday.

L.R.B. Probing Union Quarrel With Builders

The Labor Relations Board will conduct a meeting early next week with the Victoria Builders' Exchange to clarify the position of employers and unions at the H.M.C.S. Naden building project.

Trouble arose when men returning to the job after the 87-day carpenters' strike refused to work with two laborers who had continued to work during the strike.

Employers charged that carpenters violated their new contract. Work at the project has resumed.

'Y' Classes Crowded With 'Prep' Youngsters

Because of overcrowded classes the "Y" has had to split the "prep" group into three subdivisions: A-1, nine years of age; A-2, 10 years of age, and B, 11 and 12.

Between 250 and 300 boys turn out on Saturday mornings, and more are expected this winter.

A bulletin will be issued to all members naming the group to which they will belong.

Mild Business Recession Seen

C.P.R. Official Sees Decline As Rails Seek Freight Rate Hike

OTTAWA, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Special hearings on a railway application for an immediate 8 per cent hike in freight rates continued today after a top C.P.R. official forecast a mild business recession in Canada and claimed the carriers needed the $40,000,000 the increase would bring.

G. F. Buckingham, general traffic manager of the railway, told the Board of Transport Commissioners that general business conditions had deteriorated during the first eight months of 1952, and that the decline would continue into 1953.

The C.P.R. official was the first witness called by railway counsel to support the application. A further 9 per cent rate increase will be sought by the railways at hearings in December.

Buckingham testified after the board reserved judgment on a demand by the eight provinces opposing the application that the railway request be thrown out. The provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—argued that the application was in the nature of an interim increase which could only be sought to overcome an emergency.

"The application is for an interim increase," said M. A. MacPherson, counsel for Saskatchewan. "An interim application can be made only if there is an emergency. At the moment the railways face no emergency."

Chief Commissioner John D. Kearney said the application was "unusual."

"We would like to reserve judgment on the motion and deal with the case on its merits and allow the application to proceed," he said. The board could later toss out the application if the railways fail to produce evidence to prove their need for additional revenue.

Buckingham based his forecast of a business recession on a sharp decline in railway loadings between Jan. 1 and the end of August.

"There has been a falling off of general business conditions so far this year as compared with last year," Buckingham said. "We think this will continue next year."

Commonwealth Parliamentary Delegates Due

Delegates to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association conference in Ottawa, now touring Canada, arrive in Victoria Wednesday afternoon and before they depart Thursday night may be talking the lingo of the loggers.

The 80-member party will spend most of Thursday inspecting logging operations at Western Forest Industries Ltd., Honeycomb Bay site.

After their arrival on the Wednesday afternoon boat, the group will visit the Legislative Buildings as guests of the government, and then be entertained at a government dinner at the Empress Hotel.

On their return from the logging operation inspection late Thursday afternoon the parliamentarians will attend a reception given in their honor at Government House.

They leave Victoria on the mid-night boat Thursday.

Delegates to the conference have come from all points in the Commonwealth, including Australia, Bahamas, India, British Guiana, United Kingdom, Pakistan, New Zealand and Nigeria.

ELEPHANT ENJOYS FROLIC IN LIVERPOOL

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Sept. 23 (BUP)—A baby elephant in Liverpool had a gay hour of freedom Monday in the area of the Lime Street Station after escaping from its railway car.

First the two-and-one-half-ton animal stuck its trunk through open windows at a trainful of passengers. Then it tried to unhook the headlight from the locomotive.

The elephant jumped onto a pile of mailbags, did a little dance and hurled a few of the bags joyously in the air.

A taxi driver finally lured the animal back into its car with some rolls and cakes.

SEALS AND LABELS PRIZED

NEW YORK (UP)—Stamp collecting no longer is the No. 1 hobby of youngsters around the country. The American Hobby Federation, which made a one-year study among the 8,414 hobby clubs of children in the United States, said the current favorite hobby is collecting seals and labels.

Buckingham based his forecast of a business recession on a sharp decline in railway loadings between Jan. 1 and the end of August.

"There has been a falling off of general business conditions so far this year as compared with last year," Buckingham said. "We think this will continue next year."

Cougars Prowl Through Ceepeecee While Hunters Kill in Woodlands

Cougars are in the news again, both alive and dead.

Residents at Ceepeecee on Vancouver Island's west coast have sent urgent messages for help following the bold appearance of several predators in the village area.

One of the big cats had to be chased from a hideaway beneath a veranda, and nurses watched—from indoors—as a second beast walked through the hospital grounds.

James Dewar, Nanaimo hunter, is already on the scene, and other hunters are expected to leave for the isolated settlement shortly.

Meanwhile, on the east coast, cougars were getting much the worst of it in their relations with humans.

Bob McAllister, 18, of Cumberland, shot three in quick succession Saturday while hunting near Menzies Mountain in the Sayward area.

A fourth cougar, alarmed at the massacre, tried to retreat but was shot by McAllister's hunting partner, Clarence Lewis.

At Mohun Lake, near Lower Campbell Lake, Mrs. Val Dalby, and Miss Rita Carlson, who were hunting for grouse, came face to face with a large cougar. Mrs. Dalby, formerly Gwen Noel of Victoria, switched from bird to ball cartridges and killed the animal with two shots.

The bower-birds of Australia and New Guinea, allied to the birds of paradise, are named from bowers or arbors built by the males.

The Danger of Window Dressing

AS WAS POINTED OUT HERE the other day, it is foolish to expect the November conference of Commonwealth prime ministers to do anything fundamental about the stubborn problems of trade. This view has lately been expressed by The London Economist, undoubtedly the most influential economic journal in the world. Why, then, The Economist asks, is the British government "making so much fuss" about the forthcoming conference and thus building the public's hopes too high? There are two possible explanations, The Economist concludes.

On the one hand, the British government may regard the conference as "no more than a combination of window-dressing and wishful thinking." The government obviously decided some time ago that some new initiative in economic policy was needed, but "had no idea, or at least no collective idea, what it should be. Partly from sentiment, but perhaps more because it was conveniently far away, the Commonwealth conference became a means of focusing thought on the long-term problems about which the ministers might agree—and an excuse for putting off immediate decisions. This is probably the truth, but if so, British blundering is, once more, being mistaken abroad for something more astute."

On the other hand, the British government must know, The Economist says, that any attempt to erect a system of restricted and protected trade within the Commonwealth will be rejected by the conference. But after this rejection, The Economist suspects, the government can excuse this failure and its own lack of decisive policy by blaming the overseas members of the Commonwealth.

It is significant that the impossibility of having the Commonwealth off into an exclusive, tariff-protected trading zone is thoroughly understood by the editors of The Economist, as no doubt it is by the British government. Every political party in Britain, The Economist remarks, "has a few such wild ideas, some hallowed paths for emotion and escapism. . . . Ministers have deliberately let it be implied that something may be done about (tariff) preferences at the Commonwealth conference. In fact, such a policy would plainly promise nothing but harm, on balance, to this country; it would infuriate all the Commonwealth's allies, and whatever Britain wants, several members of the Commonwealth certainly would not touch it."

Canada, at least, would not touch it. It could not attempt to confine its trade to a Commonwealth zone without losing its most valuable market in the United States, without inviting retaliation from all its customers outside the closed tariff club and without undermining its economic foundations. The Economist believes that other Commonwealth members would take the same view.

In any case there is no prospect whatever of a retreat to the Ottawa Treaties system of 1932, of a Commonwealth closed against trade with the rest of the world, of an assured fiasco which would split the free world and of itself endanger the grand alliance against Communism.

The Commonwealth conference, however, need not be a piece of temporary window dressing. If it persuades the Commonwealth members to place their internal affairs—especially the problem of inflation—in better order, if it seeks the development of wider and freer world trade instead of trade restriction, and if it can thus persuade the United States towards lower tariffs and larger imports, the conference can begin a real attack on the problem which now unbalances the whole world economy.

Competition and Schedules

OFFICIALS OF VICTORIA'S Chamber of Commerce have received an answer to their complaint against the C.P.R.'s winter steamship schedule between Victoria and Vancouver. The complaint amounts to more than a protest against the slower traveling time between the two cities which causes some passengers to miss train connections out of Vancouver. It involves concern here over the growing emphasis on Nanaimo as the transportation company's favored link with the Island.

The C.P.R.'s answer to the original protest has been simply phrased. H. C. James, general passenger agent, says the change has been made because the present service is "not a paying proposition."

While Mr. James was giving that explanation to Chamber of Commerce officials, Gordon Wood, vice-president of Trans-Canada Air Lines was announcing, in an interview, that Victoria is the most air-minded city, on a per capita basis, of any terminal in T.C.A.'s system.

On the same day publicity was given to these statements, the newspapers carried a story setting out a problem of Port Renfrew merchants. They said that business would be strangled in their community unless they were given mail and freight service at least equivalent to that formerly provided by the Princess Maquinn. The replacement vessel is not providing such a service. Presumably Mr. James might have repeated to the West Coast merchants the explanation he gave to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce officials.

In the same edition, Winnipeg trucking interests were attributing to the competition in fast freight they provided for railroads a reduction by the railways in freight rates between Oshawa and Winnipeg.

These items all tie together. They represent factors in a transportation problem which concerns Victoria now and may concern the city much more vitally in the future.

Economy in time and money has increased the popularity of air traffic between Victoria and Vancouver. As more people go by air, the steamship service loses potential customers. It could probably reclaim some of that business if costs to the steamship passengers were reduced. Less elegant vessels operated less expensively might provide an answer.

But even if the Victoria-Vancouver run in winter time is "not a paying proposition," the question arises whether or not the C.P.R. has a moral obligation to take the lean with the fat in a system which extends across Canada and fluctuates by seasons as a revenue producer. The same might be said for the West Coast run.

Competition, according to trucking interests, has brought rail freight rates down between Winnipeg and Oshawa. Why should not air competition induce a similar procedure in passenger charges between Victoria and Vancouver?

These are questions which the C.P.R. might answer if the company wishes to improve its somewhat strained relations with Victoria—a city in which it has a big stake of its own.

Unless it provides a detailed reply over and above the comment regarding costs of the winter run, the C.P.R. may expect growing misgivings in Victoria that this city is to be progressively neglected in a movement concentrating steamship connections between the mainland and Vancouver Island at Nanaimo.

Making Use of Young Enthusiasm

THE INTEREST OF A SMALL boys in a fire department is legend. So it has been from the days of horse-drawn wagons. So it is in this era of shiny equipment and mechanical apparatus.

How firemen react to that interest may vary, but no reaction appears more constructive than that taken at Langford. There the firemen have channeled juvenile interest into a midget wing of the department. During the year the boys will enjoy a program of movies, basic firefighting, fire prevention and first aid.

For the expenditure of a little adult time, the youngsters in the district will have a constructive outlet for their energies, will learn something useful as they engage in what has all the appearances of club activity, and will be provided with a program that should keep them out of trouble.

The scheme has parallels in other fields. The school traffic patrols, the junior forest wardens and other organizations furnish worthwhile leisure time pursuits for youngsters. In each case the boys learn something of value to themselves and something of general benefit to the community.

Langford firemen have moved constructively on the problem of "kids who hang around." They provide an example which deserves imitation.

Sorry (Sort of) For Adlai

BY ROBERT C. RUARK
from New York

I AM beginning to feel a touch sorry for poor Mr. Adlai Stevenson, the reluctant candidate. Mr. Stevenson is wearing what the slang-swingers call a monkey on his back. Mr. Truman, after a suitable spate of demure self-effacement, gave him the Democrats' record to run on—and in no uncertain terms. This is almost like peddling

Mr. Stevenson began his campaign as a gentle parit knight, full of high-sounding phrases and delicate perceptions, and he makes noises about stumping aloof from the messy boys in Washington and Missouri. Half-alooof seems to be better than no bread at all in this instance, because what bobs up since Mr. Truman spoke is a terse declaration of who's running what.

SO NOW we have the wistful Mister Stevenson with the delicate air as merely a Truman with table manners. There's no question of who's boss. Harry done said it in his conference—there isn't any other record but Roosevelt's and Truman's for poor, unwilling Adlai to run on.

There was some talk of keeping Truman quiet in the campaign, so's Adlai could make genteel passes at the public without a lot of four-letter words blub the quality of Adlai's sensitive prose into insensibility. This idea lasted half a week, until Uncle Harry chose against personal anonymity and spoke up for the party. For a fellow of Stevenson's delicacy, having Truman for an alter ego is comparable to the girl with a boorish brother trying to impress a blind date.

IF MR. STEVENSON runs on the record, he runs blindly and unhappily. He runs on a record of scandal, of stupidity, of venality and semi-bankruptcy. He runs on inflation, on petty spitefulness, on Bill O'Dwyer and Harry Vaughan. This is a happy way to run?

What he's got to brag about is the Korean war, which got started but never got finished. It never got finished because the boys were afraid to win it. You cannot win a police action. You can only argue about it.

WHAT HE'S GOT to brag about is the loss of China to the Reds, through Mr. Dean Acheson's lofty intelligence. What he has got to brag about is the firing of General MacArthur for the sin of wanting to win a war. And all the weight of Alger Hiss as a fine world-moulder to bear him down. For extras he has Acheson's espousal of Hiss.

He's got the fact that money isn't worth a tinker's dam any more, and taxes are higher than a cat's back, and the cost of living is treble top. He can boast about corruption in the court, and cheating in tax collection, and bribes and stealing all around and about from his boss's friends. He can always, in the absence of a better state to flourish, fall back on incompetence.

AS AN inheritance he can look forward to the hangerson who surround Mr. Truman. He can be happy, in the anticipation of Matt Connolly and Harry Vaughan as aides, the first to get him out of trouble and the last to get him into it. This lad could be happier with an expectation of measles for Christmas.

Adlai Stevenson made a mess of matters about not wanting the presidency and when he made them I do not believe he knew how right he was. He said he'd shoot himself—if the nomination came his way, and he flatly refused, at first, even the idea of a draft.

THIS could have been lip service, and it could have been an innocent negation of an unpleasant idea. It was probably just a hunch, an honest hunch. He didn't know he was walking into an organized gang, possibly, and has some ideas about running his own show his own way. The last few quotes from the lame-duck President of the United States have proved him wrong. The Democrats, including Steve, will operate under boss rule as they have operated for many a dreary day. That is why I say this poor fellow has a monkey on his back. It is dope-addict slang for a habit that even the bravest man can't shake.

Telling Words

Ottawa Citizen

A POLITICAL campaigner, in these hurried times, does not write all his own speeches by any means. But Governor Stevenson somehow conveys the impression that they are his own, and the better they sound the surer the average listener is likely to be of the authority. That barbed allusion to the whole tribe of reputation-smearers—"patriotism is the last refuge of scoundrels"—was borrowed, with acknowledgment, from Dr. Samuel Johnson, and so is not remarkable except that it admirably fits the case.

But entirely original, it would appear, is another comment on patriotism: "not short, frenzied outbursts of emotion, but the tranquil and steady dedication of a lifetime."

Or this opinion on the right of any man to think for himself and to say what he thinks: "Most of us favor free enterprise for business. Let us also favor free enterprise for the mind."

Or this reference to the Republican platform: "Nobody can stand on a bushel of eels."

But perhaps the most telling thrust of all is Governor Stevenson's advice to the voters: "If you want to live like a Republican these days, you have to vote like a Democrat."

This steady procession of solid beats impresses the average Canadian. Reports indicate they are having much the same effect on Americans, who are closer to the big game—but just how much won't be known until November.

Another First

New York Times

The clean-up man of the Moscow Reds has just poked a long foul down the left field propaganda line. Swinging a big pen in the current issue of the Soviet magazine Smena, he writes that baseball as played in the United States is a "heavily battle, a bloody fight with mayhem and murder." It is also an American perversion of a traditional Russian village sport called lapta.

Not in Accordance With the Facts

As Our Readers See It

COUNCIL DOINGS

May I be allowed to express my amazement at the very undignified proceedings in the council recently. For men, supposed to be gentlemen, to be so discourteous, seems a nasty blow to the prestige of our aldermen. That was bad enough, but the press prints it in large black letters as if an event. Have we no more pride in our beautiful city than to have such behavior?

Our parents would say, "Children, try and get along together." It might be well to remember their advice and control their tempers.

K. I. ALSOP.

UNSEAWORTHY

In your September 16 issue there was a letter from one J. H. Gray, of Prospect Lake, saying that the C.P.R. had better come clean and divulge all its lack of seamanship. Otherwise, J. H. Gray would suspect it of lack of seamanship. I for one fail to follow this argument. Since J. H. Gray suspects the C.P.R. of bad seamanship already, where do we go from here? And how can we soothe J. H. Gray?

J. H. Gray says we must ally the lack of confidence in the C.P.R.'s skipper and their officers. He says this lack is growing in the minds of those who travel by C.P.R. What is J. H. Gray doing to ally it? Nothing. On the contrary, he is trying to foster it. As we travelers say, "Ask Mr. Foster."

I invite J. H. Gray to name one responsible witness to any act of bad seamanship on the part of the C.P.R. A witness who knows whether something is seamanlike or not. A witness who hasn't got something growing in his mind, as if it were a fungus.

DAVID BROCK.

BROWNING'S RELIEF

Says Archibald Rutledge in one of his books, "It should be apparent that to claim that an intellectual cannot be devoutly religious represents a degree of absurdity beyond what is readily conceivable." After citing cases of many prominent men who possessed religious faith, he writes:

"The Victorian who really amazed the atheists of England, many of whom, let it be admitted, were brilliant minds, was Robert Browning, almost as myriads of Shakespeare, indeed, some consider, the profoundest thinker that England has ever produced. All the Bohemians and agnostics expected him not only to join their ranks but to be their leader. Fully aware of his extraordinary genius, they thought he was too intellectual to be a Christian."

"Browning utterly confounded them not only by his confessions of faith, but by his superb defense of it, in such great poems as 'Saul' and 'A Death in the Desert,' the latter poem containing the celebrated lines:

"I say the acknowledgment of God in Christ

Accepted by thy reason, solves for thee

All questions in the earth and out of it."

SWEDENBORGIAN.

What He Meant About Canada House

I am sorry to say that that "Eyes on Britain" article, "Favor for the Shah," which you were good enough to run on Aug. 16, has had unintended repercussions here in London.

The article dealt with the disparity between Canada House and Australia House, which is much superior.

Apparently someone in Ottawa read the article and immediately informed Canada House here and, I am told, certain members of the staff were somewhat upbraided.

That is wrong. Very wrong. And it is my fault. Please let me be clear. The staff in Canada House, as far as I know, is superb. I once wanted a French translator. Zip, an answer came back from Canada House, introducing an expert. I required help with income tax forms. Zip, someone on the staff, fixed me right up.

I have asked them at least 50 questions in two years. They never kept me waiting. Not once. Please let this be said.

The fact remains that Australia House is astonishingly superior to Canada House. But the staff has nothing to do with it. What I tried to insinuate in the article, and, indeed, the truth, is simply that Australia, a smaller and less rich country than Canada, is spending about twice as much money on being attractive in London.

The Australian Government is more desirous of luring British youth. Australians are more concerned about the Royal Family—than Canada and Canadians are. (I have sold articles to Australian papers, identical material, that Canadian papers would not touch.)

The other day you editorially painted Britain in her present plight as "an old gentleman is still a gentleman even though his pockets are poor and his coat threadbare." Well, Australia is more anxious to retain and to build up the characteristics of that Old Gentleman—than is Canada. That's the point. The staff of Canada House is doing very well indeed—on what they have to work with.

"Hey, you! (over there in Canada House). You're getting sloppy. Smarten up, there!" Oh, no. It isn't that. The rather, do I most earnestly beseech, it is "Hey, you! (back home in Ottawa). Do you wish to emulate the Old Gentleman, Winnie and the Bulldog? Or do you wish to . . ."

STEPHEN SCHOFIELD.

London, England.

History And Honesty

BY WALTER LIPPMANN
from Washington

AMONG those who have attended the inquests on two world wars there must be many who feel that we ought to work out a code of fair practice. We need put it no higher than that, laying aside any idea that we can know the whole truth, the one and only final truth about the past. Though all the records have long since been, as we say today, declassified, the history of the American Revolution is still being rewritten. Douglas Freeman's great biography of George Washington of the Revolution in France."

There is not as yet, so far as I know, a reasonably adequate disinterested history of the early years of the Russian Revolution—none which brings together the data which have become accessible since 1917.

The still more recent past—as for example our relations with the Soviet Union and with China since the outbreak of the war—is both hot and obscure. We cannot know because we are not allowed to know much that is essential to the story.

CLOSED BOOK

Even after the event, with all the benefits of hindsight, the story of the recent past is up against the fact that the Soviet and the Red Chinese archives are a closed book. The Japanese archives have not yet, I believe, been studied carefully by independent historians. Even our own records are not completely open.

Yet we cannot for a moment admit that there must not be critical discussion of the recent past, in which the opposition holds the administration accountable. The administration is accountable, answerable for what happened in its term of office and within the period of its power. This does not mean that it can claim the credit for all that went right or that it must be punished for everything that went wrong.

Tito's break with Moscow, for example, was a windfall, not an achievement of western diplomacy. Nor, of course, does it mean that for what went wrong the administration is necessarily to be convicted of a crime and beheaded forthwith. It should be punished justly for the mistakes that reasonably prudent and competent men would not have made. But it cannot be punished for honest mistakes, for unavoidable mistakes, and for uncontrollable events.

FAIR PRACTICE

It is in our judgments about the things which went wrong that we need a code of fair practice. For since there can be no such thing as the one and only final truth about them, the best we can have is honesty and competence in looking for the truth.

We need a code of fair practice for the protection of our public servants, who cannot be intelligently honest if they are terrorized, if they cannot rely upon the fairness of the people they are serving.

We need a code of fair practice no less for the protection of the opposition: an attack like Jenner's on Gen. Marshall contaminates any sincere discussion of Gen. Marshall's policies during a campaign.

We need a code of fair practice above all, for the good of our own souls.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"FOR a long time now," said the Elevator Man, "I've been waiting for it to happen. We've had social revolutions, economic revolutions, armed revolutions, comedia revolutions and a dozen other kinds. But the one I've been expecting is the mechanical revolution—when all the machines and gadgets of the world unite, with nothing to lose but their drive chains. And I think the first signs have been seen."

It happened in Muncie, Indiana, where a lot of queer things come from. A woman there had been without electricity for a couple of days but the power men fixed the trouble. But when the radio was turned on it wouldn't work. It would only play when the front burner of the electric stove was turned on—but the burner started cold. When the rear burner was turned on, nothing happened. Even the radio stopped. The stove wouldn't start to get hot until the electric iron was plugged in. The whole delicate structure of science was in chaos. Man's servants were in revolt. Lower main!

"That," said the Elevator Man, "is why I'm keeping an eye on the Muncie situation. Because that's how the real push-button war is going to begin. The robots will start acting up. One won't work unless the other does. The stove will not strike while the iron is hot, but they'll both walk out together. Radios will refuse to operate unless electric fans are running. Gradually the movement will spread. Before we know it there'll be a general strike—a general electric appliance strike, you might say—and we'll be right back where we started 100 years ago. There'll be pay raises and more statutory holidays for the robots. They'll demand and get extras till they're all dolled up like a surrey with a fringe benefit on top. Going down!"

"The trouble," said the Elevator Man, "will be to form a labor court. You could hardly have a refrigerator or a percolator on the bench. We'll be in something the predicament of the man who was in court charged with stealing an automobile. He was asked, 'Do you want to be tried by a judge or a jury of your peers?' 'What's peers?' asks the judge. 'Peers are your equals,' says the judge. 'They're men of your own class—your own kind.' 'Take the case yourself,' says the prisoner. 'I don't want to be tried by no automobile thieves.'"

Councillor Demands Retaliation For Coast Ships' Slow Schedule

An embargo on all C.P.R. late to catch the eastbound trains and will have to spend an extra day in Vancouver.

Mr. Bate said the schedule "looks like a deliberate attempt to force all its transportation from Victoria to Nanaimo."

The schedule is taking this end of the Island right off the map," said Reeve Joseph Casey. "It means that people living here will have to spend an extra day in Vancouver if they want to go to points east by train."

The council decided it would send letters of protest to the C.P.R., Saanich M.L.A. and the Provincial Government.

The suggestion was made by Mr. Bate at a council meeting Monday following a discussion on the proposed "slow ship" schedule.

Councillors were unanimously against the change which they felt was a move on the part of the C.P.R. gradually to remove its service from Victoria to Nanaimo.

The C.P.R. schedule calls for the withdrawal of fast ships Princess Marguerite and Princess Patricia during the winter. These would be replaced by the slower ships, Princess Joan and Princess Elizabeth.

The schedule also means that the Victoria-Vancouver passengers will arrive in Vancouver too

Something else
that "makes the man"
(and does even more for him!)

"Clothes make the man," says the old adage. And certainly a trim appearance can do much to help a man make a good impression on others.

But today more and more men are learning about another way to enhance their standing with certain people. That is, to own life insurance.

Take employers, for instance. To them, a man's ownership of life insurance suggests that he is foresighted, thrifty, realistic. Above all, it reflects willingness to accept responsibility — an attitude that impresses every employer.

In fact, anyone who learns that a man owns life insurance regards him with added respect. It represents one of the most important assets any man can have — an asset held by nearly all successful men in every walk of life.

Yet perhaps the most important effect of owning life insurance is on the policyholder himself. It gives him a sense of achievement. For in no other way can he create such a valuable estate for so little in so short a time. And this, in turn, adds to his own self-confidence.

So life insurance can do more than provide financial security for your family and yourself in later years. It also influences people in ways that help win success!

Campbell River Fisherman on Trial for Life

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23 (CP).—A 24-year-old Campbell River fisherman went on trial for his life Monday, accused of killing an elderly man in a rooming house May 14.

The case against William Moon is being heard before Mr. Justice J. H. Coady and a 12-man jury in Assize Court here.

The Crown alleges 74-year-old Renaldo Valpe died May 22 in hospital from effects of injuries received in a May 14 beating in a Powell Street rooming house.

The Crown says it will prove a watch pawned by Moon for $5 at an East Hastings loan firm belonged to Valpe.

VOLUNTEERS FOR ACTION

"The average man or woman just doesn't know..."

There are hundreds of people in Victoria, men, women and children, who actually go hungry.

There was the case, for instance, of the family of five, whose father was ailing and whose mother worked a few hours a day for wages. Her very meagre earnings were largely consumed by rent and light and fuel bills. There wasn't enough to eat.

This family ate porridge for breakfast, lunch and dinner... porridge without either milk or sugar. Meat was a luxury with which they were scarcely acquainted.

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul heard of the case and lent assistance. Since 1915 this society has relieved thousands of families in similar distress. But without the funds provided by the Red Feather campaign, the Society's work would be curtailed.

The same thing applies in the case of the Esquimalt Friendly Help.

There was a family whose children were missing school.

The teachers made inquiries and discovered the little boy and girl just couldn't attend. They had neither shoes nor adequate clothing. And their meals were sketchy, too.

The Esquimalt Friendly Help's volunteers were able to provide both food and clothing in this emergency, and the widowed mother, since has been found work which allows her to maintain her household.

"The average man or woman just doesn't know," a volunteer worker said, "or they would not need urging to contribute to Red Feather."

LIFE'S WORTH LIVING

For a good many older people beyond the years of hard work, life has very few compensations for their inactivity.

The Citizens' Recreation Rooms offers the sort of friendly services they need.

Mr. Cownden, one of the volunteer helpers, was saying: "Nobody cared about this old man. He'd given a lifetime of work to the development of this country, and there wasn't a welcome for him anywhere until he came to the Citizens' Recreation Room."

"I'm glad he found us. For when he did he was despondent to the point of thinking of doing away with himself."

The recreation rooms for men and women... not necessarily old people... provide an oasis in the desert of disinterest for the stranger in our midst.

This is another service which the funds of the Red Feather assists.

Nixon's Expense Account Raises Demand for More Money for Solons

BY JOHN TRACY

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (CP).—One of the offshoots of the political explosion over Senator Richard Nixon's private expense allowance is a renewed demand that legislators get more public money to help them do their jobs.

The Republican vice-presidential candidate's acceptance of $18,235 in contributions to help him pay his expenses as a senator from California is the current sensation of the U.S. election campaign.

Aside from the question of Nixon's ethics in accepting the money, a number of lawmakers from both sides of the political fence have jumped in to urge some action to prevent the national legislature from becoming a "rich man's club."

A U.S. senator gets $12,500 a year in salary and a $2,500 tax-free expense allowance.

"No senator can maintain a separate home here, raise a family, do necessary campaigning and maintain contacts back in his state on that," said Senator George D. Aiken (Rep. Vt.) in an interview.

Aiken said some senators are wealthy but others must supplement their incomes by practicing law, making speeches for pay, writing "or putting the wife or some member of the family on the office pay roll."

One who supplements his income by making speeches and lectures and writing articles is Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.).

SPECIAL ASSISTANCE

Humphrey said in a radio debate on the Nixon affair that "Congress ought to provide enough money for its legislators to do their jobs" without their having to seek special assistance from other people.

"Sooner or later," he said, "the American people are going to have to realize that the costs of public service are big."

BASIC ALLOTMENT

A senator gets 20 cents a mile traveling between home and sessions of Congress. This usually is paid only twice a year although sometimes special mileage allowances are voted.

As Aiken put it, "If a senator did not get home often to see his constituents he would not be in the senate long."

In addition to his salary and tax-free expense allowance, each senator receives a basic allotment for hiring clerks and other aides. Its size depends on the population of his state. In Nixon's case the amount is expected to be about $60,000 a year.

In addition to the major allowances, U.S. senators receive such benefits as:

Special cash funds for stationery, postage, official telegrams and long-distance calls; free franking of all mail that the senator considers official business; free office space and office furniture; free haircuts at a private barber shop; and up to $900 a year for office space in their home states.

Next January 1 will see the end of the senators' tax-free expense allotment. Then senators' salaries will go up to $15,000 with no specific expense provisions.

Appeal Court Boosts Sentences in Narcotics Cases

B.C. Court of Appeal ruled in favor of the Crown Monday when it increased the sentences of three persons brought before it with convictions on charges of drug possession.

The Appeal Court added one and one-half years to the sentences imposed by County Court. The court increased the prison sentence of Catherine Couturier, 22, of Ruskin, B.C., from one year and one-half years to two years and six months.

Sentences of two brothers, Peter Harrington and Bert Ambrose Harrington, were increased similarly. Peter Harrington, originally sentenced to 12 months, will be required to serve two years and six months.

Bert Ambrose Harrington, the older brother, had his sentence boosted from two years to three and one-half years.

In all cases, those convicted must pay a $200 fine or serve an hour watch on the skies. Spruce Knob, W. Va. (UP).—When citizens of Spruce Knob decide to do something, they go all out. Every person in the town has joined "Operation Skywatch," the civil defense ground observer program which maintains a 24-hour watch on the skies. Spruce Knob has six citizens.

COUGARS CONTINUE TO UTTER ONLY SILENCE

Heavy silence continues to emanate from the Victoria Cougar front office.

General manager Fred Hutchinson reported Monday night that while there were names being circulated as possible members of the 1952-53 Cougars, none of them were definite and none were for immediate release.

With the Montreal Canadiens' training camp due to break up in the middle of this week and the Cougars slated to open camp here Monday, it is certain that candidates for the squad will be named within the next three days.

SENIOR A STOCK SOARS

Busher Jackson Named to Coach

Everybody is smiling in the camp of Pat Horgan's nameless senior A men's basketball club.

This is because the news was released today that the services of one of Victoria's greatest stars of the hoop court, Busher Jackson, has come forward to handle the coaching duties.

Busher—his real name is Edwin Stanley Lewis Jackson—has a wealth of basketball experience behind him. He was a member of the Dominos before the war and after when they climbed to Dominion supremacy. He has continued to keep his hand in the game ever since.

Since the disbanding of the Dominos he has been in coaching roles for teams in lesser company. His Arrow Furniture boys of senior B company last year annexed the lower Island championship.

"I've got a band of good boys shaping up now and with Busher to put them through their paces and guide them on the floor we will soon be all set for the action mill," said happy Pat Horgan.

LIKES SQUAD
"I've only been out to one practice thus far," said the 34-year-old ex-Domino, "but what I saw looked promising; the team has lots of youth and that's what we need."

Horgan will be off to Vancouver this week, where he hopes to complete negotiations to have Victoria accepted into the inter-city senior A men's circuit.

While Victoria made an unsuccessful bid in that company last year, Horgan feels confident that when he tells the mainland officials what he has lined up for this season's campaign they will admit the local club.

Should this materialize it will mean the return of inter-city competition, which gained high popularity (with standing-room only) during the hectic days of the Dominos and earlier when the same team was known as the Blue Ribbons.

Walter Yeaman's MacDonald's girls, B.C. senior B champions last year, will also make the local picture more appetizing for hoop supporters.

These moves are heartening to Victoria and District Basketball League officials, who are presently in an all-out campaign to give the game a blood transfusion.

All-Star Ice Coaches Name Alternate Teams

MONTREAL, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Tommy Ivan and Dick Irvin, rival coaches for the annual National Hockey League all-star game in Detroit, October 5, have named their alternates and both lean heavily on members of their own teams.

Ivan, who will call the plays for the first team, which already includes four members of his champion Detroit Red Wings, selected four more among his 11 subs.

Irvin, whose Montreal Canadiens contributed two men to the first team and another to the second, added six more to his second squad, plus four from the Toronto Maple Leafs.

OPENS SEASON
Eighteen hockey writers, three from each N.H.L. city, selected first and second teams last spring for the game between hockey's who's who. It kicks off the N.H.L. season with little at stake but the personal prestige of the 13 players and two coaches involved, and the players' pension fund, which gets two-thirds of the gate.

The four Wings joining their coach on the first squad are goal tender Terry Sawchuk, defenseman Red Kelly, right wing Gordie Howe and left wing Ted Lindsay. Defenseman Doug Harvey of the Montreal Canadiens and centre Elmer Lach, also of the Canadiens, round out the first string.

In addition to four Red Wings alternates, three were named from the New York Rangers, two from the Boston Bruins and two from the Chicago Black Hawks.

They are: Charlie Rayner (New York), sub-goal; Leo Reise (New York), Bob Goldham (Detroit), Gus Mortson (Chicago) and Bill

No Soccer Meeting
James Allen, secretary of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association, announces that the meeting, previously announced for tonight at St. Louis College, will not be held.

In one of the most highly touted heavyweight boxing matches in years, Brockton, Mass., strongboy Rocky Marciano, left, tonight will attempt to wrest the heavyweight crown from the venerable head of ancient Jersey Joe Walcott, right. The odd-angled view shows Marciano hefting a medicine ball at left while Walcott swings a baseball bat to keep in shape. The scheduled 15-rounder is at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. (NEA)

Rocky Expects Victory; Odds Back Confidence

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23 (UP)—Rocky Marciano, the unbeaten "Tiger Man" from Brockton, Mass., expects to take over the world's heavyweight championship away from old Jersey Joe Walcott tonight by knocking him out in the sixth, seventh, or eighth round.

Odds makers generally agreed with the predictions of the 28-year-old slugger as they made him a 7 to 5 favorite for the 15-round battle at Municipal Stadium.

Marciano, whose thudding fists have earned him comparison to former champion Jack Dempsey in the days when that great warrior was fighting his way to the top, calmly admitted his knockout intentions at an unprecedented mass interview Monday night.

Untried by the five-hour ride from his training camp at Grossinger, N.Y., or by the prospect of the first 15-round fight of his career, Marciano scorned the tradition that holds on the eve of great bouts and held court before a battery of cameramen and a band of reporters before he paid his respects to a large steak—with garlic sauce.

Sure, he hated 38-year-old Walcott, he admitted, but he explained, "I hate every man I see in the ring before me, and I try to take him out as soon as possible."

The relaxed Rocky appeared supremely confident he would register his 43rd consecutive professional victory and his 28th knockout when he battles the oldest heavyweight who ever defended the crown. That Rocky was the first heavy with a perfect record to challenge did not put him under any perceptible pressure.

If Marciano wins, he will be the first white heavyweight champion since Jim Braddock was knocked out by Joe Louis in 1937.

In heavy betting, the 28-year-old Italian remained the favorite at 7 to 5. There was much talk of higher and lower odds, but the actual wagering commanded that middle price. Rocky may be a 2-1 favorite by ring time as more and more money comes in from New England.

The fight shaped up as a slugfest in which either of the participants might be knocked out. For that reason, promoters Jim Norris and Herman Taylor expected a crowd of at least 50,000 and a gate of at least $550,000 if the weather is favorable.

The forecast was "cloudy and cool." In case of a postponement, the bout will be staged Wednesday night. The fight will not be broadcast or televised except in certain theatres.

FIGHT RESULTS
By the Associated Press
CHICAGO—Hastings Hall, 191, Chicago, outpointed Larry Watson, 177, Omaha (8).
BOSTON—Joe Cam, 204, Boston, stopped Willie Orsini, 127, New York (8).

Snowbirds Plan First Class Ski Site

A skiing ground that may become Vancouver Island's best and most accessible is in an advanced stage of development on the northern slopes of Mount Brenton, near Ladysmith and Nanaimo.

Scores of the 200-member Victoria Snowbird Ski Club are lending their help each Sunday in the development of the skiing site—and they have far-reaching plans when the dollars are available to follow through.

At present volunteer workers of the fast-growing club—20 to as many as 55 a Sunday—are building a headquarters cabin at the base of the mountain's north slopes at the end of Silver Lake.

When finished it will be 30x18 feet with a log base, shiplapped sides and the roof and sides sheathed with cedar shakes.

Brooklyn Orders Wine of Victory

Dodgers Can Take Flag; Indians Gain on Yanks

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (UP)—Tonight in Brooklyn should come the realization of a dream shattered 355 days ago by Bobby Thomson's Haunting Homer.

This could be the fulfillment of the "next year" in which the pennant hopes of the Flatbush faithful have resided ever since their tragic miss in 1951.

In the Brooklyn clubhouse, the champagne is on ice in the expectation of a pennant celebration. And the Dodgers possibly can achieve their goal with no more effort than the twist of a television dial.

DISTANT INTERESTS
The Dodgers, who play the Phillies in a twilight-night double-header at Ebbets Field, will assemble early around the clubhouse television set to follow the progress of the Giants-Braves twin bill at the Polo Grounds approximately 10 miles away.

One defeat for the Giants will clinch Brooklyn's third pennant in the last six years. And if the Giants sweep the double-header, Brooklyn still can clinch with a victory in either game against the Phils.

When the seemingly inevitable occurs, the champagne corks will pop; manager Charley Dressen will give Pee Wee Reese, Joe Black, Jackie Robinson and several other weary regulars the rest of the night off, and joy will overflow in the teeming precincts of Brooklyn.

Sal Maglie, ace of the Giants' pitching staff, and rookie Bill Connelly will be assigned the job of keeping alive New York's all-but-vanished pennant hopes. They will be opposed by Ernie Johnson and Lou Burdette of the Braves.

WORRIES CONTINUE
While the Dodgers' worries are expected to be over by midnight at the latest, the same cannot be said of the Yankees and Indians who still are waging an all-out battle for the American League pennant.

Early Wynn recorded his 23rd victory of the season Monday as the Indians came from behind to beat the Tigers for their sixth straight triumph and their 15th in the last 17 games. Cleveland broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning when Wynn and Dale Mitchell walked, and Tiger shortstop Harvey Kuenn missed Bobby Avila's grounder. A triple by Avila, Larry Doby's single and Luke Easter's double added two more tallies in the eighth. Wynn yielded only five hits and struck out seven.

LOPEZ CONFIDENT
Lopez insisted that his Indians will win the pennant, chiefly because the Yankees used up their ace pitchers against the A's and must rely on second-stringers against Boston.

DRUCE, BOB MISSING
United Shaping Up As Title Contender

Victoria United will open its bid on local soil Saturday for Coast League soccer supremacy with a line-up that is almost identical to the team that raked in the league championship last season.

They will meet Vancouver Firefighters Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at Royal Athletic Park.

NO DRUCE
United manager George Eade's hopes of getting the services of Tommy Druce for the centre forward—considered a great strengthener for the Victoria inter-city aggregation—will not be realized. Druce will return to New Westminster Royals for action in the major senior soccer loop.

According to information here, Vancouver teams are picking up former Scottish stars to build up their playing units. St. Andrews, for instance, is reported to have signed two former Scottish players.

While the final line-up will not be determined until tonight's team meeting, Manager Eade came up with what he figures will be the eleven going into action—with alternates and subs.

McALLISTER IN GOAL
Bill McAllister will be between the United-goal posts again this year. Bill Howe and Joe Robbins will be fullbacks.

He was not sure whether the centre half would be Sid Robbins.

COMMERCIAL HOCKEY BRASS TO MEET
Final arrangements for the proposed entry of Victoria Commercial League teams in inter-city competition will be discussed at a special meeting Wednesday night at 8 in the B.C. Hospital Insurance Building, Michigan Street.

Plan is to have locals meet Vancouver teams. All managers and executive members are asked to attend the party. There will also be discussion on the 1952-53 league schedule.

NANAIMO, Sept. 23 — Judge L. A. Hanna on Monday dismissed a charge of retaining stolen goods laid against Raymond Shepherd in County Court.

Charge concerned a gun belonging to Air Commodore Alan Hall of Qualicum.

Evidence that an accused person knew goods were stolen when he got them supports a receiving charge, the judge said.

Russian Papers Give Prominence To Nixon Exposure

MOSCOW, Sept. 23 (AP) — The Soviet press gave prominent attention today to Sen. Richard M. Nixon, and his $18,000 expense fund, with Pravda reporting that the exposure had dealt "serious harm" to the candidacy of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and the Republican party.

"New York Post exposes sell out of Republican party candidate for vice-president Nixon," read a headline in Pravda, the organ of the Communist party.

The report that candidate Nixon receives funds from a group of California millionaires has changed the picture of the pre-election campaign and put the camp of Eisenhower in an extremely difficult position," the paper said, reporting there was a division among the Republican forces as to whether Nixon should withdraw from the race.

Saanich Vote Blocks Entry to New Highway

An application for a commercial outlet on to the new Patricia Bay Highway was blocked by a majority vote at a meeting of Saanich Council Monday following a lively discussion on whether commercial establishments should be allowed to operate along the route.

The application failed to get the approval of the majority of councillors after H. K. Bate argued that if people were granted permission to establish businesses along the highway it would eventually lead to ribbon development. "It defeats the purpose of the new highway," he said. "It will take the speed out of the highway and soon traffic will be reduced to 30 miles an hour."

His views were supported by Councillors Grace Shaw, G. Stanley Eden and L. H. Passmore.

Those in favor of the application charged "discrimination."

The applicant, H. J. Campbell, was the only remaining person in a block near Elk Lake who did not have an outlet to the Patricia Bay Highway, Councillor Roy Wootton pointed out.

"It's discrimination," said

Councillor E. P. Cummins. "How can we refuse this man when people next to him have outlets to the highway?"

Called upon to address the council, Mr. Campbell said the new highway had cut across his property and ruined it for residential purposes. "It is only good for commercial use now," he said.

He told the council that he protested to the provincial government against having his property cut up by the new highway.

"I was told by a government official that I shouldn't complain as my property would have a commercial value" said Mr. Campbell. "Now I'm told I can't

Three Accidents Take Four Lives

PRINCE GEORGE, Sept. 23 (BUP) — Inquests were to be held this week into the deaths of four persons in the Prince George area in a rash of weekend accidents.

Three men were killed in two traffic mishaps. A fourth died under the wheels of a passenger train.

W. G. Waters of Vancouver and Eric Evans, address unknown, were instantly killed in a head-on collision near Vanderhoof.

John H. Gibson, 35, was killed when his car crashed into a logging truck near Chief Lake on the Hart highway. Daniel McDonald, 60, formerly of Inver-

Reeve Joseph Casey said he was completely in favor of giving Mr. Campbell an outlet to the new highway.

Blazing Trails for a Nation

Canadians are a pioneering people. There were the epic voyages of discovery and the penetration of the fur traders into an unknown land. The clearing of farms and the building of towns followed, in surges of achievement that pushed the frontier westward through the Prairies to the Pacific.

The present generation of pioneers is still further extending our frontiers, this time to the North along pathways of the fur traders. In areas which only yesterday were considered remote, great developments are taking place in uranium, oil, natural gas, iron ore, nickel and hydro-electric power, new resources for a dynamic country, new names on the map of Canada.

As an integral part of Canadian enterprise, our branches provide banking service at many of the key points in this northward expansion.

PROTESTS UNAVAILING; ROADSIDE SPRAY STAYS

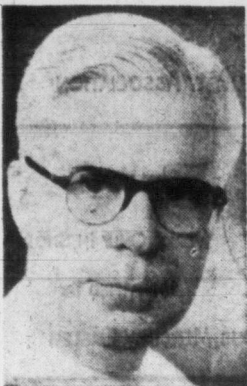

A protest against the use of a spray to remove weeds and wild shrubs along the sides of roads was made to the Saanich Council Monday by the Lake Hill Women's Institute.

The institute in a letter said the dried shrubbery and weeds killed by the spray 2-4-D-T was "unsightly" and a "fire hazard."

This summer similar protests were made to the provincial government against the use of the spray on provincial highways. It is claimed that the spray kills hundreds of birds which nest along the roads.

The council decided that the spray is beneficial and will continue the practice.

C.C.L. in Fresh Move To Unite Labor Forces

TORONTO, Sept. 23 (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor has decided to strive again for unity with the Trades and Labor Congress. The T.L.C. has spurned previous advances.

At the same time it planned a knock-out battle against certain elements of the American Federation of Labor, the T.L.C.'s United States associate, charged with raiding C.C.L. membership.

The question of unity with the 523,000-member T.C.C. came up Monday during discussion of the first batch of some 150 resolutions which locals have advocated for C.C.L. approval.

The Congress agreed to seek unity with the T.L.C. and with the 93,000-member Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, but Donald MacDonald, C.C.L. secretary-treasurer noted there had been previous "rebuffs" and "insults."

"There is a price we will not pay for unity," he said. "We have turned the other cheek, but we will not compromise our integrity and honor. We want to be partners in the open."

T.L.C. president Percy Bengough rejected union with the C.C.L. at the T.L.C. convention in Winnipeg last month. He said the C.C.L. wanted to co-operate "on the basis of how much they could take away from this congress."

To fight A.F.L. raiding of C.C.L. membership, the Congress voted to "take immediate steps to counteract discriminatory actions of the A.F.L." in the Canadian construction industry.

Delegates charged that A.F.L. building trades unions in Alberta particularly were compelling C.C.L. union men to switch to an A.F.L. union by "intimidation and discrimination."

"We must take more militant action against the A.F.L.," said George Mitchell of the Vancouver

Pearson Expresses Willingness To Serve as President of U.N.

LONDON, Sept. 23 (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's minister for external affairs, said today he thinks the military goals set by the North Atlantic Treaty countries for 1952 will be "substantially" met.

He acknowledged that the objectives laid down at Lisbon last February may not be fulfilled with arithmetical exactitude, but said too much emphasis should not be placed on paper totals.

"Very great progress has been made," he told reporters.

Asked about the flow of trained military reserves to N.A.T.O. forces, the Canadian minister said his information is: "We're getting stronger every week." He said N.A.T.O. generals are "encouraged but not satisfied."

In a passing comment on the United Nations, Pearson forecast that the forthcoming General Assembly in New York will be a "very interesting" session. Questioned about reports that he may be elected president of the assembly, Pearson replied he would be "quite willing" to serve if called upon.

Pearson returns to Canada by air tonight.

The chief business of the meeting of the N.A.T.O. council convened for Paris on December 15 will be to plan the military program for 1953, Pearson said. The first objective of this program would be to complete the original 1952 targets.

Pearson still hoped that the completion of national estimates for the coming year would take place in time for all business to be transacted at the one Paris meeting, and not at two meetings as was necessary last winter in Rome and later in Lisbon.

He paid tribute to the increasing effectiveness of the permanent N.A.T.O. council in Paris, over which he presided last week, and to the new British secretary-general, Lord Ismay.

Listing topics of non-military co-operation discussed last week in Paris, Pearson said the council had debated the working of Atlantic and national information services and had set up a working group on one subject.

IMPORTANT NOTICE To Eczema Sufferers

Scientists' Discovery—Successful Treatment Found

Discovery by eminent scientists that one of the main causes of skin diseases can be a lack of essential fatty acids in human nutrition, has already brought blessed relief to many thousands of former sufferers. It took ten years research to extract from pure vegetable oils essential fatty acids with a high concentration and found in F "99"—the Swiss treatment for Eczema. F "99" is taken internally (capsules) and applied externally (ointment).

To many thousands who have already benefited by the F "99" Two-Way Treatment, this is an important reminder to replenish the system at this time of the year by taking a course of F "99" capsules, one per day, for a few weeks. If you are not an F "99" user, obtain a copy of the fully descriptive 16 page F "99" booklet. Simply write to Diva Laboratories, Dept. 206 Saanichton, B.C.

Saanich Has No Money for Arts Centre

Saanich council Monday turned down a request from the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria for financial aid.

Reeve Joseph Casey said it was impossible for the municipality to enter into an agreement with the arts centre due to the Municipal Act which does not allow it to make grants to art institutions.

The arts centre asked the council if Saanich would share with other municipalities the cost of maintaining the grounds and building. The sum would amount to $3,000 to be shared among the four municipalities.

Free Clinics Might Draw Drug Addicts

Suggested establishment of free drug clinics in British Columbia might attract drug addicts from all over the continent, Attorney-General Robert Bonner warned Monday at a Gyro Club luncheon meeting.

The attorney-general said it was not certain that such drug clinics would wipe out the illegal traffic in drugs.

"The appetite for drugs demands continually increased doses. An addict might take his free government shots, then supplement them by illegal purchases," Mr. Bonner said.

He added that the clinic plan also ignores the fact that drug addiction is primarily a psychiatric problem.

The attorney-general stressed he was "merely considering the factors involved," rather than stating government policy.

Smoke of Battle Clears Momentarily as Woods-Wise Loggers' Crew Shackles Rampaging Fire

By DON INGHAM—Times Staff Reporter

When fire strikes at the heart of a big—really big—logging outfit, wheels begin to turn in a hurry.

Such a fire broke out Saturday night in the Cooper Canyon operations of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., when high wind drove a slash fire across fire breaks and into both felled and bucked and standing timber.

The company's answer to the outbreak was revealed by a trip to the camp Monday afternoon.

A 12-mile drive from the Cowichan Lake highway, over an excellent gravel road and through logged country, brings one to the camp, in the Copper Canyon of Chemainus River.

Except for a heavy smudge over the area, a visitor would never know that a real battle was on. There is complete order at the camp, almost within a home run of the closest fire line, and everyone seems to know his job.

Equipment rolls in and out of camp with a minimum of frenzy, and maintenance work proceeds as usual.

In the heart of the fire the same order prevails. Roads provide fair access to the fire area, and a drive through the country proves that hundreds of men, though out of sight, are on the job.

The throaty roar of giant bulldozers competes with the high whine of fire pumps. Every now and then the shrill shriek of a power saw is heard from a distance, where a crew of fallers cuts dangerous snags from the path of the flames.

When trouble loomed, all MacMillan and Bloedel camps came forward with men and machinery.

Loggers have come from as far as Port Alberni and Campbell River, and fire-fighting equipment of all kinds has poured in from the company's other operations.

Now upwards of 600 men fight the fire, on two shifts of 300 men each.

Threatened timber is that growing on Sugarloaf Mountain, which lies between Chemainus River and Boulder Creek.

The two streams are roughly parallel, about two miles apart and converge at a point about a mile below the camp.

Slash fires were started a week ago over a huge area on both sides of the two streams. The only trouble arose at the easterly end of the mountain, when a strong wind carried the flames out of the slash and into the timber.

Right now efforts are being made to contain the fire. Bulldozers are pushing fire trails as hard as possible, as secondary lines of defense, and at least 15 trucks carrying water tanks of 800 gallons and more are constantly patrolling the roads to wet down the flames within reach of their hoses.

As usual, in a forest fire, the weather holds most of the trumps.

"If it rains before a wind comes up, we'll have it licked," one company official said. "If the wind comes up first, though, we'll have another fight on our hands."

Most of the men, however, were supremely confident that they had the fire where they wanted it.

"This is nothing," one young veteran of years of work in the woods had to say. "It's finished for today and by Tuesday we'll have it tied up."

To the layman the valley looks like a scene from Dante's "Inferno"—a land of scorched earth, blackened stumps, and countless spires of smoke that lay a pall for miles.

To the loggers, though (discounting the loss of merchantable timber), the fire is just another phase in the harvesting of the timber crop.

"Ten years from now we'll be hunting through here, and someone will be logging in another 100 years," one old-timer said.

The layman also finds it hard to find such all-out effort combined with complete absence of any panic or hurry.

"Well," explained one man on patrol, "this kind of thing happens now and then, and this company knows what to do when trouble starts. So does everyone else."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

"That" is a word which bothers me. In fact, you might say I am a thataphobe.

The way to send me screaming from the room is to turn on the radio, and have it exhort me to "drop in and pay a visit to Finglettheimers, and pick out that item that you want to choose."

I grant that that is an extreme example, but there are many each day nearly as bad. (Incidentally, see how "that's" tangle me up? Even when used correctly, I hate "em).

A more common example of "that" run wild is: "Get that new range at Brisket & Co. right now."

"That," in the case above, is no doubt used as a demonstrative adjective and the grammarians could make a case for it. But it is a word which points; and I do not wish to be pointed at.

It is rude to point. (Or should I say, to point is a thing that is rude to do?)

It is not only the radio which offends in the use of "that." The printed word is equally guilty. As, for instance: "Handy are the one, two and three-suiters that can be had with companion bags."

But I hesitate to go further. "That" is a word which drives me nuts. And that's that.

I note that Kid Hamfatter of CKDA claims I am falling down on the job by not telling the constituents the current mystery voice could be either a man or a woman.

This cuts me to the quick, as the Kid must have missed Between Times two weeks ago, when I broke the above news. In fact, I am so hurt that I will now pass on another clue: The mystery Canadian's name is M—rie Dr—sler.

The ever-progressive British, leaders in science and industry, have announced a non-breath-making beer.

I am not the one to block the advancements of science and invention, but I am not entirely in favor of this step.

How is a husband to know when his wife has stepped in at the corner for a fast one on the way home?

Have a letter to hand from an organization, with an awesome name:

GROUP ATTITUDES DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION.

Am looking forward eagerly to meeting the vice-president of same.

Wish to ask him how he figured out such a jim-dandy name for a press agent.

Farm Land Available For Racetrack's Site

Farmers Prepared to Sell 350 Acres If Saanich Gives Permit to Promoters

Five farms will be involved if the Royal Portage Parks Ltd. gets a permit from Saanich Council to build a $3,500,000 race track in the vicinity of Burnside and Prospect Lake Roads, it was learned today.

The company Monday applied to the council to have approximately 350 acres rezoned in the area for that purpose. The application was referred to the town planning commission for consideration.

Farm owners in the area have announced that they are willing to sell if the application is granted. So far there appears to be little opposition to the scheme.

However, Reeve Joseph Casey said the first thing he wants to know is who is behind the proposal.

If permission is granted, it is understood that several new roads will have to be built in the area leading to the proposed horse racing site.

The company first attempted to build a $12,000,000 recreation area on Portage Inlet, but residents opposed the scheme.

Automatic Phones Not Due Until '54

Automatic telephone systems will be installed in the Albion, Colquitz and Belmont districts by the end of 1954, the B.C. Telephone Company informed Saanich municipality today.

The announcement follows a request made to the company by Saanich Council for definite dates as to when it intends to change the telephone systems in the three areas.

The council felt that in view of repeated delays in installing the dial systems, the company should say when it would make the change.

The telephone company in a letter wrote that it would receive from its factory telephone equipment for the Albion exchange in June, 1953. The equipment for the Colquitz and the Belmont exchange would arrive between July and September of the same year, the firm said.

If there were "no delays," the telephone systems would all be installed in 1954.

B.C. Gets Aid In Narcotics Traffic War

A Dominion-provincial conference on British Columbia's growing drug problem was being held in Vancouver today.

The meeting is the first concrete step taken by B.C.'s new government to tackle the drug problem. The parley was arranged by Dr. F. G. Amyot, deputy provincial health minister, on instructions from Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin.

"We are determined to stamp out this menace. We are very much alive to the problem, and this conference is just the first step," Mr. Martin said.

Dr. Amyot was chairman of the conference which was held behind closed doors.

Four federal government officials were attending the meeting along with Vancouver city representatives and several provincial government and R.C.M.P. officials.

The meeting was described by Mr. Martin as "exploratory," but he felt those attending will "dig right into the problem" and soon come up with some recommendations.

LONDON TAXI ON ITS WAY HERE FOR CORONATION EXHIBITION

An 18-year-old London taxi which was rattling around Trafalgar Square and Piccadilly Circus less than two weeks ago, has been crated for shipment and sent on its way to Victoria.

The taxi which has done yeoman service in the British capital is to be used in connection with a Coronation display which Woodward's department store is planning for next year.

J. Courtenay Haddock, store manager, said the cab was picked out by Woodward representatives some months ago, but was not retired from service until Sept. 10.

"Now what we've got to do is to find someone who worked as a London cabbie," he said. "If there's anyone living in Victoria who has driven taxi there, we want to know about him."

The cab on its way here has logged 750,000 miles, and has been hired by an estimated 95,000 persons.

Marking for Cabinet Cars Asked by Civil Servants

British Columbia's civil servants, especially those driving government cars, are anxiously waiting to see if the new government will carry out marking of government cars to the fullest extent.

They are thinking specifically of government-owned cars used by several cabinet ministers.

Will the government cars used by the ministers also be marked with the government crest and the words "official use only"?

Government workers have heard rumors that the ministers do not intend to allow their cars to be marked.

The government recently instituted a policy whereby all government cars are to be marked as a safeguard against abuse by private use of the cars.

But it's not only civil servants who use government cars. At least four ministers are using government cars.

If the government is going to be fair, and carry out its pledge of "special privileges to none," civil servants argue that the ministers' cars also must be marked with the B.C. crest and the words "official use only."

Civil servants whose duties require them to use government cars have resented the government statement that fines for infractions of traffic regulations are to be paid by the employee.

The workers object to the statement because they contend it implies the previous government paid the fines. The former government did not pay the fines, they stress.

Police departments of Greater Victoria in the future may have a "process server" to deliver summons, thus relieving the uniformed men of the job.

The matter was discussed at a meeting of Victoria Police Commission and a representation from Saanich Council today.

All municipal police commissions will be invited to a meeting Oct. 1 to discuss the suggestion.

The meeting today agreed that it was "not good business" to have two policemen in a car delivering a summons.

Q.—Why do some people like to eat their cheese when it gets moldy?—Mrs. A. B. C.

'Casper Milquetoast's' Creator Died With Happy Memory of City

One of the last personal letters written by H. T. Webster, internationally known cartoonist who died yesterday, was received on Wednesday by The Victoria Daily Times, which featured his cartoons on the editorial page.

"My wife and I will never forget your beautiful city which we visited about 27 years ago," Webster wrote.

"There was also an exciting adventure on Central Lake (the far end) where it was impossible to cast without hooking a trout."

The letter was written in pencil, in a laborious long-hand. The cartoonist affixed a P.S. to his letter:

"Excuse the labor-saving pencil. I am having eye trouble."

Wire dispatches from Stamford, Conn., Monday did not give the cause of death, but said he died on a commuting train while en route home to Stamford from Bridgeport.

Webster's cartoons, delineated in a homespun style, delighted millions of newspaper readers all over the world. His most famous individual creation was Casper

Milquetoast, known as "The Timid Soul."

A newspaper reader once wrote Webster, claiming that "Casper" should be spelled "Caspas."

Webster replied: "I have taken this up with Mr. Milquetoast. He tells me that the family spelling has for generations been 'Casper.' However, he says you are undoubtedly right, and that he will take steps to have his name changed."

Favorite subjects of Webster's were bridge and—as his letter to the Times illustrates—fishing.

A dedicated student of bridge, he drove the makers of Canasta sets wild with his devastating satires on "the fun game." He was also a major critic of radio commercials, satirized in his panel "The Unseen Audience."

Many of his fishing cartoons were gathered and put into book form. A recent best-seller was "To Hell With Fishing," which he published in collaboration with Ed. Zern.

Last winter Webster's cartoons were put on a Dominion-wide exhibition tour by the T. Eaton Co. Store officials here said that the Victoria showing attracted more spectators than any other exhibition they had sponsored.

In his recent letter to the Times, the handsome, white-haired cartoonist talked about a cartoon suggestion, saying "I will keep it in my mind for use in the fall of 1953, my stuff being prepared several months ahead of publication."

Foil Wrap Will Save Many Valuable Minutes

By PENNY SAVER

You know, there is so much to say about the article I want to tell you about today, that I really don't know where to begin.

Before I start raving about it, though, I guess I'd better settle down and tell you what I'm talking about.

Had in mind a heavy silver wrapping paper to be used in the kitchen for cooking, roasting, baking, broiling and hundreds of other uses.

Really, it's astounding the amount of use you can get out of a roll.

You can line your pots with it when cooking and it will keep them like new and eliminate endless hours of tiresome washing, scraping and scouring.

That covers, briefly, the cooking uses of the foil.

Now, here are a few of the conveniences of having it for use as a wrap for food.

In it, food remains fresher—longer. You would be wise to wrap vegetables, meat, fish and fowl to retain their freshness, flavor, vitamins and natural juices.

You just have to place the wrapped food in your refrigerator and it will keep for an amazingly long time.

Tear off as much of the foil as you need and fit it over food, dishes and pans.

In using it you will find that it is unaffected by heat, cold and moisture. Also that it is fireproof and waterproof and above all, that it can be used over and over again.

A 25-foot roll of the foil sells for 55 pennies.

As the old saying goes, "It would be a bargain at half the price."

If you only put it to half its uses you'll still be getting a lot for your money.

Making Friends in a New Community Is a Long Pull

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Making friends in a new community is hard at any age. But when a person is grown up and settled with a family, making friends in a strange place is a long, hard job. Here are some suggestions for the woman who writes:

(Q) We have just moved to a new neighborhood and I'm lonely. I'm 31, married, and have two children. I've tried to make friends but the women are just the 'hello and good-bye' type. I'm blue during the day, can't go anywhere because of the children, and haven't anyone to chat with. I've asked a few women to go to the movies with me at night but they're busy with their families. I'd like to go out one night a week.

(A)—Those who would have interests in common with you would be in the same situation you are. They, too, have families and can't leave them.

Because you are an adult new in this community you can't expect to make friends quickly. Women your age have their families and friends. They're too busy to be interested in a new comer, unless she is attractive, interesting, and has something special to offer.

If your time during the day is free, while your children are in school, perhaps you could take an active part in some community organization, such as a volunteer in a hospital or in Red Cross work. There's always a real need for workers in most churches and Parent Teacher's Associations.

Have you met the wives of your husband's business associates? Invite them to your home and get to know them. You should have a lot in common because your husbands are in the same field.

Don't force yourself on others, or rush a person you admire. A lot of the fact that friendships are formed slowly in adult years and most adults will accept a new person only after looking that person over long and carefully. So long as you have your family, you shouldn't be so lonely that life becomes a bore.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

WHY GROW OLD?

Exercise Promotes Health But It Must Be Done Right

Exercise plays a very important part in promoting health, decreasing health, decreasing fatigue and tension, building energy and creating a lovely figure!

The woman who exercises usually keeps her physical attractiveness much longer than the indoor sedentary type. Exercise is important to all of us but there are certain rules which should be observed if it is to become a part of our lives. I want to give you some of them today.

1. Individuals vary in their capacity for exercise. This depends on your physical condition and the amount of exercise you have taken in the past. Then, too, some people just seem to react better to exercise than others. Exercise should be planned according to your ability.

2. People more than 40 should have a physical check-up and a study of their reaction to exercise before beginning it.

3. You should not indulge in strenuous competitive games after the age of 35 unless you have been playing them right along.

4. If you are "soft" and have been inactive physically you should build up gradually.

5. Always begin and end your exercise period with walking about the room or some other such mild exercise. This protects the heart. Do not start in or end with strenuous exercises.

6. In trunk bending exercises always breathe out as you bend and in as you raise the trunk. This places less strain on the heart.

7. No matter what your age is, you can judge your reaction to exercise by your ability to recuperate from it. In other words if you still feel weak or tired after an hour's rest you are exercising too much. Exercise should be relaxing but not tiring. If your heart beat is still much faster ten minutes after exercising you do not react well to it.

Take these suggestions seriously and then go ahead with your gymnastics. You cannot hope for as high a degree of fitness without them. Exercise properly taken, builds stamina and strengthens the heart and improves its efficiency.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Pep," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 56 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

There's something very exciting in reading a letter from a friend far off in one of the interesting places of the world. . . . It's the next best thing to being in that particular "interesting place" one's self. . . . At least that's the way I always feel. . . . and I imagine you do, too. . . . So today, I'm going to share a letter with you. . . . Written by a Victoria girl, Miss Margaret Hinkman, who at present is visiting in Hong Kong.

"We arrived in Hong Kong's beautiful harbor at 5 a.m.," Marguerite writes, "and I was on deck to catch my first glimpse of this fabulous place. . . . And it is fabulous. As soon as we had anchored . . . out in the harbor the boat was surrounded by sampans in various state of disrepair but apparently seaworthy. Literally hundreds of Chinese scammed and crawled up the sides of the ship, scolding the gangplank. Many stayed in their sampans and we threw coins for which they dived. I threw a Canadian 10-cent piece . . . one of my last . . . and the little boy who caught it was thoroughly disgusted . . . not Hong Kong money."

"A friend came aboard on the ship's agent's launch and promptly beat a way through about 20 Chinese who were trying to sell me everything from a seed pearl fan to a set of rattan furniture. We went ashore and to the Gloucester Hotel where I found around the door of my room a beautiful horseshoe of multi-colored paper . . . very gay . . . and the room was filled with exotic looking flowers. . . . A Chinese merchant who knew my friend, was responsible."

"Life is very different here . . . very exciting. . . . Yesterday I went exploring through the street bazaars. . . . I had never seen anything so colorful or heard so much noise! The streets are narrow with overhanging verandahs on the buildings and from them hang brightly colored banners. The stalls are set up along the street. . . . You would think the city would be dirty but it is very clean. . . . There are, I must admit some pungent and unusual odors in the bazaars but you get used to this and I enjoyed it as part of the 'atmosphere'."

"Of course you bargain for everything and it takes hours to shop. You never accept the first price stated but always throw your hands up in horror and start to walk away . . . at which the merchant takes his cue and says 'how much you pay' . . . you then name a sum . . . about half of the first figure . . . at which he goes off into a tirade of very nasty Chinese and after half an hour of this you buy the article for about a third of the original figure, he assuring you he will now starve and knowing he has made a jolly good profit. . . . The Chinese enjoy it as much as you do. . . . It's their meat and drink. . . ."

"Hong Kong is simply beautiful! I have been by car to Repulse Bay and Deep Water Bay . . . two famous resorts . . . and then over to Kowloon by ferry and so through what they call the new territories. The roads are all very narrow and steep and make the Malahat Drive look like a magnificent highway. . . . We drive on the left, which I find very disconcerting . . . have the feeling everyone is coming straight for me."

A City of Wonder . . . And Many Peoples

"From where I am writing this . . . in a friend's flat . . . I have the whole of the city and the harbor spread out at my feet with a view of Kowloon and the new territories. . . . I really can't put into words how beautiful it is, but believe me it is magnificent and like nothing I have ever seen before. . . . At night it is like a fairyland of colored lights and the harbor is bright with ships' lights and crossing ferries. . . . There are about 2,000,000 people in Hong Kong . . . some say 2½ millions . . . including foreigners . . . like me. . . ."

"The prices of food and clothing are cheap but rents are not so cheap. . . . Servants are reasonable and even in the hotel I have an 'amah' (lady servant) who is just the sweetest thing with the most infectious giggle. . . . She tells me she is married but that she pays another Chinese woman to live with her husband and 'keep him happy' so that she can work and make money. . . ."

"One of the funniest sights I have seen so far was almost beyond description. . . . It is the rainy season and one just cannot go out unless armed with an umbrella and most people have paper umbrellas . . . you've seen them . . . like parasols. . . ."

"Well, today, while walking in town, it started to rain. . . . Then I saw, coming toward me, a well-dressed gentleman of generous proportions, very natty and dapper in his cream-colored linen suit and 'old-school' tie and with a very stern mien . . . but carrying the gayest Chinese parasol of palest mauve with flowers and butterflies in the design. It was so incongruous . . . but here no one even noticed it but me."

Marguerite Hinkman has a host of friends in this city. . . . She is a former president of the Solarium Junior League here and until a few months ago was a well-known young Victoria business woman. . . . Today . . . she writes to us from Hong Kong!

THE DOCTOR SAYS Tonsils, Adenoids, Of Questionable Use

BY EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.

Everyone is born with tonsils and adenoids, but these tissues do not always have to be removed. Both tonsils and adenoids often can be left where they are all through life without producing any apparent harm.

A reader asks: "What good are tonsils? What is their function? Does it hurt a child to go through life without them? Are you healthier with your tonsils?"

The tonsils are small lumps or nodes, lying in the back of the throat, made up of certain kinds of cells which classify them as lymphoid tissue. They are of doubtful value and have very little function, though they may trap and perhaps destroy germs entering the breathing system.

But so far as one can tell, it does not "hurt a child to go through life without them." Furthermore, to answer the final question, there is little reason to believe that one is healthier with tonsils than without them—in fact sometimes one is healthier without them.

DAMAGE MAY SPREAD

Sometimes the removal of the tonsils and adenoids has to be seriously considered. The tonsils can become chronically inflamed, and frequently in such cases look normal on the surface but have deep-seated infection within them.

In fact, chronic infection may cause the tonsils to appear shrunken and still pour poison into the system. In such cases, especially if rheumatism, injury to the kidneys, or other damage is suspected, the tonsils should generally come out.

In acute tonsillitis, the tonsils become inflamed and swollen. Tonsils are not removed at the time when they are acutely inflamed. If, however, acute attacks develop frequently and signs of danger to other parts of the body appear, then these tonsils too may need to be removed.

INTERFERE WITH BREATHING

The adenoids are made up of tissue much like that of the tonsils. This tissue lies in the back part of the nose. The adenoids, like the tonsils, may harbor germs and cause chronic infection.

In children, particularly, they may be large enough to interfere with breathing through the nose—most mouth breathers have enlarged adenoids. The adenoids can be, and usually are, removed at the same time as the tonsils.

Definitely diseased tonsils and adenoids should be removed surgically. They are sometimes treated with X-ray, by coagulation with an electric needle, or by radium (in the case of the adenoids), but these methods are not used as often as surgical removal.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

The owner of a sunroom or greenhouse, whether it is heated or unheated, may raise a batch of flowering potted plants for a brilliant display in the early spring.

This is not just wishful thinking, for it has been done by many amateur gardeners willing to give two or three hours each week to the job.

Choose the easily grown annuals which enjoy cool growing conditions and which normally flower in early summer. Good subjects to start with are Schwannia (butterfly flower), Nemesis, and Dimorphotheca (one of the South African daisies).

Sow the seed now, in pots or small boxes of moist sandy soil. Keep some seed for spring sowing, rather than sow too thickly. The seedlings will be slow growing if or when the weather turns cool. At time of writing our thermometer reads 82 degrees outdoors in the shade!

When large enough to handle, prick off one seedling to a two and a half inch pot. Do not add any fertilizer at this time, the aim being to keep the plants as cool as possible with no luxuriant growth during winter months. Most of the plants will remain in these small pots until about the end of January, but they must be inspected regularly to see that they do not become root bound. As soon as roots fill the pots, the plant must be shifted into a pot one size larger without disturbing the roots.

Give only enough water during the winter to keep the plants from wilting, choosing the morning of a bright, sunny day for watering. Keep the frost off the plants with light coverings of newspaper, or cardboard over the glass, or some other means which you find satisfactory. Avoid high temperatures, but give all the light possible, turning the pots every two days if no overhead light is available.

By gradual moves, the plants should be in five-inch pots by mid-March. Careful pinching in the early stages, particularly with Schwannia, will have produced fine bushy specimens. Weekly doses of liquid fertilizer in weak concentration, commencing in February, will aid in rewarding you with masses of bloom in the early days of spring.

Most new-born white babies have blue eyes because the pigment that causes other colors does not develop until some weeks after birth.

Stowaway Sweetheart Sent Home

SEATTLE, Sept. 23 (AP)—Diana Elizabeth Smith, 17-year-old Vancouver girl, found Monday that celebrating her engagement by stowing away on her fiancé's ship is frowned on by the U.S. immigration service.

Immigration officials arranged plane transportation for her back to Vancouver, where her parents may have a thing or two to say.

Young Diana told immigration men she became engaged in Vancouver last Friday night to Gerald Dean Smith, 25, of Seattle, an oiler on the American Mail Line's Island Mail.

When the ship got ready to sail for Seattle Saturday, she went aboard to bid her fiancé goodbye. They were still saying farewell when the Island Mail pulled out. "I just sat in Gerald's cabin," the girl said here. "I didn't realize it was anything serious."

John P. Boyd immigration service director here, said he will decide later whether action will be taken against Smith.

Yes... you get ten (10) big, bountiful drawers in this beautiful bedroom suite... PLUS the radio headboard. A woman designed this suite & she thought of everything. She put the big PLATE mirror high up, so you don't have to stoop. She attached the steel rails to the Radio Headboard so it doesn't wobble when you sit up in bed. She thought of EVERYTHING except the price.

Speaking Up

The earth's newest active volcano, located 780 miles south of San Diego, Calif., on uninhabited San Benedicto Island, belches clouds of boiling grey smoke and gas as it continues its eruption. The cone of the volcano, first in the Pacific basin east of Hawaii in historic times, has built 1,050 feet above the sea in six weeks, changing the shape of the island. ### SEEN AS TEMPORARY SPARES

Monkey's Heart, Lungs May Give Sick Baby Life

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Transplanting a monkey's heart and lungs to a human baby may be tried within a year, a surgeon predicted today.

The monkey heart and lungs would become temporary spares. They would sit on the outside of the baby's body, and be connected to the infant's arteries and veins to bypass his own heart and lungs.

They would pump his blood and do his breathing while surgeons opened the baby's heart to repair congenital defects which cannot be touched now.

This prospect is one of a number of bold developments described to the American College of Surgeons. Dr. Emanuel Marcus, of the Chicago Medical School, told of the monkey-baby possibility.

The heart and lungs taken from one dog have been transplanted successfully to another dog.

The spare parts can be attached to the dog's neck, thigh, or abdomen. They have been so connected that the dog's blood is deoxygenated around his own heart and the left side of his own heart. The next step is to make the spare do the work of both sides of the dog's own heart.

This transplant has worked for 14 to 48 minutes, long enough to permit surgery on the dog's own heart, Marcus said. Afterward, the borrowed heart and lungs are disconnected and discarded.

The heart and lungs from a large-sized monkey might do the same thing for a baby needing heart surgery, he said. He predicted someone probably would attempt it within a year, but "I won't say it's going to work."

Canadian surgeons have used a monkey's lungs in combination with a mechanical heart to do surgery on babies doomed by heart defects. The infants have all died so far.

(BB) "THE WILD HEART"
(Royal)—If you're thinking of taking your ever-loving wife out for a carefree evening away from the kids, pass this one up. For the Michael Powell-Emeric Pressburger adaptation of Mary Webb's powerful and compelling story, "Gone to Earth," is of a black mood and could be depressing.

However, if you are looking for some of the finest technical photography imaginable, pastoral yet bleak glimpses of the Shropshire country on the Welsh-English border, hatched in early morning mists, gloomed by a dark evening's English sky, then here it is.

And above all, there is Jennifer Jones, compelling actress of "Duel in the Sun" and "Song of Bernadette," playing the difficult role of the fey, ignorant country girl, Hazel Woodus, whose love for dumb animals leads to her downfall. Although the part may not ring the box office's bell too loudly, it should certainly enhance Miss Jones' personal reputation as a fine actress.

The story is simple enough. But a despairing note is induced by the characters. Hazel, whose only guide to life is a book of folklore left to her by her dead mother, is torn between the desires of two men. The first, the lusty squire, played magnificently by London-born David Farrar, and the second, the compassionate parson, Cyril Cusack. Only after a sojourn with the squire does the simple girl realize that it is the parson and the good he represents that she loves.

As I've said before—if you're in the mood—this is excellent.

'Magnificent' Earns Second 'Well Done'

By DICK BROME
ABOARD H.M.C.S. MAGNIFICENT, in the North Sea, Sept. 23 (BUP)—Canadian carrier pilots ranked as aces of task force 171 today after Lieut. Roger Fink of Ponoka, Alta., "sank" a submarine in the North Sea shortly after dark Saturday during exercise "Mainbrace."

It was the second sub "sunk" by the Magnificent's flyers, and miles away from the task force gave Canadian pilots credit for to relay a message of Fink's the only two submarines "killed" by carrier planes from the task force so far in the exercise. Fink's after-dark accomplishment also earned the Magpie a second message of "well done" flashed from force.

Rear Admiral W. G. A. Robson, commander of the task force aboard his flagship, the British carrier Theseus.

The sinking climaxed the bustling flying day of the exercise, as the second phase of the manoeuvres—a simulated landing on the north shore of Denmark—got underway.

Land-based planes flew 150 miles away from the task force to relay a message of Fink's "kill" to headquarters ashore. Thus radio silence from the task force itself was preserved, in order not to tip other subs in the area to the location of the task force.
